IN OMNIBUS GLORIFICETUR DEUS.

THE RULE

OF

Our Most Holy Father St. Benedict,

Patriarch of Monks.

From the Old English Edition of 1638.

Edited in Latin and English

By One of the Benedictine Fathers of St. Michael's, near Hereford.

PREFACE.

THE venerable Father Baker, while acting as spiritual director to the Benedictine Nuns at Cambrai, compiled for their use a Commentary upon the Rule of our Holy Father St. Benedict. In the few remarks which he prefixed to that work, he states that the first seven chapters of the Rule, "were done into English" by Father Leander Jones, commonly called Father Leander of St. Martin. It would seem that when he had gone thus far with his translation, he was hindered from proceeding any farther by his appointment to the important office of President General of the English Benedictine Congregation. The task which he had so happily begun was not, however, suffered to remain long in its unfinished condition. It was taken up and completed, most probably, by Father Cuthbert Fursden, whose

With some necessary alterations, the present edition is a reprint of that published in the above mentioned year. Though possibly inferior, from a literary point of view, to many of the English versions already in existence, nevertheless for our Benedictine Sisters, at whose request and for whose use it is chiefly published, it possesses a charm to which no other can pretend to lay claim. To many of them it has been the medium through which they have imbibed the spirit of our Holy Father, while to our Sisters of Stanbrook it is hallowed by memories which must invest it in their eyes with a character almost sacred. It was certainly used in the Convent of Cambrai by those illustrious Sisters, of whom they are the lineal descendants, and whose saintly lives they so earnestly strive to emulate. They look upon it, therefore, as a kind of heirloom, and its quaintness speaks to them of days of trial long gone by, of hardships endured, of obstacles removed, of difficulties overcome, and of the many cherished ones who have passed from among them, after learning from its pages that heavenly prudence, which taught them to have their lamps trimmed, and their vessels filled with oil, when the Bridegroom came and called them to the marriage-feast.

Their preference for it, therefore, is not to be attributed to a mere love for what is antique, but arises rather from a very praiseworthy desire to perpetuate the existence of an old and valued translation, associated in their memories with some of the holiest and happiest moments of their lives.

Of the two men to whom we are indebted for the translation of the Rule, Father Leander is the more celebrated. Cressy says of him, "that his learning and piety were famous throughout Christendom." He was born in London in the year 1575, though the family from which he sprang came originally from Llan Wrinach in Brecknockshire. When he was old enough to cope with the rough discipline of the public school, his parents sent him to that of the Merchant Tailors where he received the earlier part of his education. After completing the course of studies at this establishment, he passed thence, at about the age of sixteen, to St. John's College, Oxford. The room which he occupied, while there, was shared with him by William Laud, afterwards
Archbishop of Canterbury, who retained for him throughout life the warmest affection and attachment. On leaving the University, he applied to the study of Law, and succeeded in taking a Bachelor's degree in it, and was then made Fellow of his College. He did not retain this position very long, for his profoundly religious spirit was not satisfied with the Faith by Law established, and his logical mind was startled by its glaring inconsistencies. After mature deliberation and careful study, his determination was taken; he returned to the ancient Faith, which had been for a thousand years the Religion of his country, and feeling within himself the secret promptings of the Holy Spirit to betake himself to a life of perfection, he turned his back, like the Patriarch of old, upon friends, and home, and kindred, and went to Spain, where he entered the Benedictine Monastery of Compostella, and was there professed about the year 1600.

He was then sent to the University of Salamanca to prosecute his theological studies, during the course of which he was advanced to the Priesthood. He crowned his theological career by winning for himself the degree of Preface.

Doctor of Divinity, and was then directed by his Superiors to join his countrymen of the Spanish Benedictine Congregation, who were at that time labouring upon the English Mission. On his journey through France he stayed at the Abbey of St. Remigius at Rheims, and at the earnest entreaty of the Abbot was allowed by his Superiors to remain there for some time to train their Novices. Proceeding thence towards his final destination, he reached Douai. Here, also, he was ordered to undertake the same office, and remained at the Benedictine Monastery in the exercise of his arduous duties from the year 1607 till 1612. In this latter year he was appointed Vicar General over all the English Benedictines of the Spanish Congregation residing out of Spain. Throughout the period during which he exercised this office, his most strenuous efforts were directed towards bringing about a union between the Old English and Spanish Congregations. It was only natural that since he belonged to the latter of these two, he should direct the whole weight of his influence towards bringing the English Fathers of the Old Congregation under the authority of the Spanish General. Owing, however, to the exertions of Father Anselm Beech, who had lately been elected President of the Cassinese and Old English Congregations, the latter, which had come down by direct succession from St. Augustine, and had for centuries flourished in this country, was saved from losing its independent existence.

In 1617 nine Definitors were elected to draw up the terms of union between the two Congregations. Father Leander's name stood first among these, and as soon as matters were finally arranged, Dr. Gifford was chosen first President Elect, and Father Leander second President Elect, to succeed in case the President should die before the expiration of his term of office. Dr. Gifford, however, was elevated at this time to the episcopal dignity, and thus the honour of being the first President of the present English Congregation devolved upon Father Leander.

At the meeting of the first General Chapter held at Douai in 1621, he ceased to be President, because it was not usual in our Congregation at that time to be re-elected to the same office, and was then appointed to the Priorship of St. Gregory's. After the lapse of twelve years, he was again called to be President, and on the 23rd of April, 1634, had the satisfaction, at St. Gregory’s in Douai, of hearing the promulgation of the famous Bull Plantata, issued by Urban VIII., whereby the English Congregation was firmly established and confirmed in all its immunities and privileges.

He was a man of extraordinary eloquence, famous for his mastery of the Oriental languages, and for his wide and varied knowledge in all the arts and sciences. Multiform and harassing as were the duties of his public life, he nevertheless continued to discharge the office of Professor of Theology and Hebrew for twenty-four years, either in the College of Marchienne, or in that of St. Vedast. He died at London on the 27th of December, 1635, in the sixtieth year of his age.*

* The following are the works of Father Leander Jones:—

I. Sacra Ars Memoriae, ad Scripturas Divinas in promptu habendas, memoriterque ediscendas accomodata. Duaci. 1623.

II. Conciliatio Locorum Communion totius Scripturae. Duaci. 1623.

III. Biblia Sacra. 6 vols. Published under Father Leander’s care.

IV. Opera Ludovici Blosii.

Preface.

Father John Fursden was the eldest son of Mr. Philip Fursden of Thornton in Devonshire. About the spring of the year 1620, Father Baker was appointed by his Superiors to be Chaplain in the house of this gentleman. The eminent sanctity of this great Ascetic made so profound an impression upon John, that he put himself entirely under his direction, and became one of his most enthusiastic disciples. He soon made such progress that his spirit of prayer and his spotless innocence of life won for him from God the great privilege of a call to the Religious state. He accordingly proceeded to Douai, and received the holy habit of St. Benedict at St. Gregory's. On completing the year of probation, he took the solemn vows of Religion in 1622. While he remained in the Monastery, he was remarkable for his exact observance of all the discipline of Religious life, for his sublime spirit of Prayer, and for his total abstraction from everything which could disturb the intimate union of his soul with its Maker. When sent on the English Mission he continued to lead a life precisely similar to that which he had led in the Cloister, so that his very person became eloquent by the persuasive spirit of sanctity which shone through him and drew others nigh to God.

Preace.

He was appointed Chaplain to Lady Falkland, and while acting in that capacity, succceeded in winning over to the church her four daughters, two of whom afterwards became Benedictine Nuns at Cambrai. It was in Lady Falkland's house that Father Serenus Cressy, then a Protestant dignitary, first became acquainted with him. His religious modesty, and the example of his holy life, aided no doubt by his fervent prayer, made so deep an impression upon this eminent man, that he was eventually led back to the Old Faith, and became one of the brightest lights of our Order.

In after years he used to attribute the grace of his conversion to the eminent virtues and pious example of this humble and devout Priest.

Father Fursden completed his earthly career at the house of Lady Falkland on the 2nd of February, 1638. The translation of the Life and Rule of St. Benedict are attributed to him.
Preface.

May the Religious Spirit which actuated these two saintly men, their love for our Holy Father St. Benedict, and their zeal for the glory of God, fill the hearts of all men; but especially of those who like them, "have left all things to follow Christ."

St. Michael's Priory, Hereford,
Commemoration of Our Holy Father St. Benedict,
July 11th, 1875.
The Dates inserted in the Margin of the Latin Text, are to point out that portion of the Rule which is read in Monasteries every day, either at Prime, or if it be a fast day, before the evening Collation. The entire Rule is thus read through three times each year.

THE PROLOGUE

OF OUR

MOST HOLY FATHER SAINT BENEDICT

TO HIS RULE.

Hearken, my son, to the precepts of thy Master, and incline the ear of thy heart willingly to hear, and effectually to accomplish, the admonition of thy loving Father, that by the labour of obedience thou mayest return to Him, from Whom thou didst depart by the sloth of disobedience. To thee therefore is my speech now directed, who, renouncing thy own will, dost take upon thee the strong and bright armour of obedience, to fight under the Lord Christ our true King.

First of all whatever good work thou dost bonum, ab eo perfici instantissima oratione deposcas; ut, qui nos jam in filiorum dignatus est numero computare, non debeat aliquando de malis actibus nostris contristari. Ita enim ei omni tempore de bonis suis in nobis paren-dum est; ut non solum, ut iratus pater, non aliquando filios suos exhaeredet; sed nec, ut metuendus Dominus, irritatus malis nostris, ut nequissimos servos, perpetuam tradat ad poe-nam qui eum sequi noluerint ad gloriam.

1 Rom. xiii. 11.
2 Ps. xciv. 8.
3 Apoc. ii. 7.
4 Ps. xxxiii. 12.
begin, beg of Him with most earnest prayer to perfect; that He Who hath now vouchsafed to reckon us in the number of His children, may not hereafter be saddened by our evil deeds. For we must at all times so serve Him with the goods He hath bestowed upon us, that He may not either as an angry Father disinherit us His children, or as a dread Lord, exasperated by our offences, deliver us up to perpetual punishment as wicked servants, who would not follow Him to glory.

Let us therefore at length arise, since the Scripture stirreth us up and saith, "It is now the hour for us to rise from sleep,"¹ and our eyes being opened to the deifying light, let us with wondering ears attend to the admonition which the Divine Voice daily addresseth to us, saying: "To-day if you shall hear His voice, harden not your hearts."² And again: "He that hath ears, let him hear what the Spirit saith to the Churches."³ And what saith He? "Come, ye children, and hearken unto Me: I will teach you the fear of the Lord."⁴ "Run habetis, ne tenebræ mortis vos comprehendant.”

Et quærens Dominus in multitudine populi, cui hæc clamat, operarium suum, iterum dicit: “Quis est homo, qui vult vitam, et cupit videre dies bonos?” Quod si tu audiens, respondeas: Ego; dicit tibi Deus: Si vis habere veram et perpetuam vitam, “prohibe linguam tuam a malo, et labia tua ne loquantur dolum. Diverte a malo, et fac bonum; inquire pacem et sequere eam.”

Et cum hæc feceritis, oculi mei super vos, et aures meæ ad preces vestras. Et antequam me invocetis, dicam: “Eccè adsum.”

Quid dulcius nobis hæc voce Domini invitantis nos, fratres charissimi? Ecce pietate sua demonstrat nobis Dominus viam vitae. Succinctis ergo fide, vel observantia bonorum actuum lumbis nostris, per ducatum Evangelii pergamus itinera ejus, ut mereamur eum, qui nos vocavit, in regno suo videre.

while ye have the light of life, that the darkness of death overtake ye not."1

And our Lord seeking His labourer among the multitude to whom He here speaketh, saith again: "Who is the man that will have life, and desireth to see good days?"2 If thou, hearing this, dost answer: "I am he:" God saith unto thee: "If thou wilt have true and everlasting life, refrain thy tongue from evil, and thy lips, that they speak no guile. Decline from evil, and do good; seek after peace and pursue it."3 And when you have done this: My eyes shall be upon you, and My ears shall be open to your prayers. And before you can call upon Me, I will say: "Behold I am present."4 What, dearest brethren, can be sweeter, than this voice of the Lord, inviting us? Behold how in His loving kindness He showeth unto us the way of life! Our loins therefore being girt with faith and the observance of good works, and our feet shod with the guidance of the Gospel of peace, let us walk in His ways, that we may deserve to see Him Who hath called us unto His kingdom.5
Prologus.

In cujus regni tabernaculo si volumus habitare, nisi illuc bonis actibus currendo, minime pervenitur. Sed interrogemus cum Prophetæ Dominum, dicentes ei: "Domine, quis habitabit in tabernaculo tuo, aut quis requiescet in monte sancto tuo?"  Post hanc interrogationem, fratres, audiamus Dominum respondentem, et ostendantem nobis viam ipsius tabernaculi, ac dicentem: "Qui ingreditur sine macula, et operatur justitiam; qui loquitur veritatem in corde suo; qui non egit dolum in lingua sua; qui non fecit proximo suo malum, et opprobrium non acceptit adversus proximum suum."

Qui malignum diabolum aliquam suadentem sibi, cum ipsa suasione sua a conspectibus cordis sui respuens, deduxit ad nihilum, et parvulos cogitatus ejus tenuit, et allisit ad Christum.  Qui timentes Dominum, de bona observantia sua non se reddunt elatos, sed ipsa in se bona, non a se posse, sed a Domino fieri existimantes operantem in se Dominum mag-

Prologue.

If we desire to dwell in the tabernacle of this kingdom, we must apply ourselves to good works, whereby alone it can be reached. But let us ask our Lord with the Prophet and say to Him: "Lord, who shall dwell in Thy tabernacle, or who shall rest on Thy holy hill?" After this question, Brethren, let us hear our Lord answering and showing us the way that leadeth to His tabernacle, saying: "He that walketh without spot, and worketh justice. He that speaketh truth in his heart, that hath not forged guile with his tongue. He that hath not done evil to his neighbour, and hath not received reproach against him." He that rejecting out of his mind the malignant devil with all his suggestions, hath brought them all to nought, and taking his thoughts while they are still young, hath dashed them against the rock Christ. All they who fearing the Lord, take not pride in their good observance and well-doing, but knowing that all the good they have, or can do, proceedeth not from themselves, but from nificant, illud cum Prophetae dicentes: "Non nobis, Domine, non nobis, sed nomini tuo da gloriari."1 Sicut nec Paulus Apostolus de prædicatione sua sibi aliquid imputavit, dicens: "Gratia Dei sum id, quod sum."2 Et iterum ipse dicit: "Qui gloriatur, in Domino glorietur."3 1 Ps. cxiii. 1. 2 2 Cor. x. 47. 3 Rom. ii. 4. 4 Matth. vii. 24, seq. 5 1 Cor. xv. 10. 6 Ezech. xviii. 23.

Prologue.

the Lord, magnify Him, thus working in them, and say with the Prophet: "Not to us O Lord, not to us, but to Thy Name give glory."¹ Thus the Apostle Paul imputed not anything of his preaching to himself, saying: "By the grace of God I am what I am."² And again he saith: "He that glorieth, let him glory in the Lord."³ Hence also our Lord saith in the Gospel: "He that heareth these My words and doth them,—I will liken him to a wise man that hath built his house upon a rock. The floods came, the winds blew, and beat against that house, and it fell not; because it was founded upon a rock."⁴ Our Lord fulfilling His promises, daily waiteth for us to answer by our deeds, these His holy admonitions. Therefore the days of our life are prolonged for the amendment of our evil deeds, according to those words of the Apostle: "Knowest thou not that the patience of God leadeth thee to repentance?"⁵ For our loving Lord saith: "I will not the death of the sinner, but that he be converted and live."⁶ Quum ergo interrogaśsemus Dominum, fratres, de habitatore tabernaculi ejus, audivimus habitandi præceptum: sed si compleamus habitatoris officium, erimus hæredes Regni coelorum. Ergo præparanda sunt corda et corpora nostra sanctæ præceptorum obedientiae militaturæ; et quod minus habet in nobis natura possibile, rogemus Dominum, ut gratiae suæ jubeat nobis adjutorium ministrare. Et si fugientes gehennæ poenas ad vitam perpetuam volumus pervenire, dum adhuc vacat, et in hoc corpore sumus, et hæc omnia per hanc lucis viam vacat implere, curandum et agendum est modo, quod in perpetuum nobis expediat.

Constituenda est ergo a nobis Dominici schola servitii; in qua institutione nihil asperum, nihilque grave nos constituturos speramus. Sed et si quid paullum, restrictius, dictante æquitatis ratione, propter emendationem vitiorum, vel conservationem charitatis processerit, non illico pavore perterritus refugias viam salutis, quæ non est nisi angusto
Prologue.

Having therefore, my Brethren, enquired of our Lord who shall be the dweller in this tabernacle, we have heard what his duties are, and if we fulfil them, we shall be heirs of the heavenly kingdom. Let us therefore now prepare our hearts and bodies to fight under the holy obedience of His commands, and beg of our Lord to supply that, by the assistance of His grace, which our nature is unable to perform. And if we desire to avoid the pains of hell, and attain to everlasting life, we must, while yet time serves, and we live in this mortal flesh, and may perform all these things by the light of faith, haste to do that now which will be expedient for us for ever hereafter.

We are therefore now about to institute a school of the service of God; in which we hope nothing will be ordained too rigorous or burthensome. But if in some things we proceed with a little severity, sound reason so advising, for the amendment of vices or preserving of charity; do not straightway for fear thereof, flee from the way of salvation which is always strait and difficult in the beginning. But in process of time and by long continuance in this holy course and method of life, when the heart has once been enlarged, the way of God's commandments is run with unspeakable sweetness of love; so that, never departing from His school, but persevering in the Monastery in His doctrine until death, we share now by patience in the sufferings of Christ, that we may deserve afterwards to be partakers of His kingdom.

CAPUT I.

DE GENERIBUS MONACHORUM.

Monachorum quatuor esse genera manifestum est. Primum Caenobitarum, hoc est, monasteriale, militans sub regula vel Abbate. Deinde secundum genus est Anachoretarum, id est, Eremitarum, horum qui non conversionis fervore novitio, sed monasterii probatione diurna, didicerunt contra diabolum, multorum solatio jam docti, pugnare; et bene instructi fraterna ex acie ad singularem pugnam eremi securi jam sine consolatione alterius, sola manu vel brachio, contra vitia carnis vel cogitatio- num, Deo auxiliante, sufficiunt pugnare. Ter- tium vero monachorum deterrimum genus est Sarabaitarum, qui nulla regula approbati, ex- perientia magistra, sicut aurum fornicis, sed in plumbi natura molliti, adhuc operibus servantes sæculo fidem, mentiri Deo per tonnsuram noscuntur.
CHAPTER I.
OF THE SEVERAL KINDS OF MONKS.

It is well known that there are four kinds of Monks. The first are Cenobites, that is, Monastic, or Conventual, living under a Rule or Abbot. The second are Anchorets or Hermits, who, not in the first fervour of devotion, but after long probation in the monastic life, have learnt to fight against the devil, and after being aided by the comfort and encouragement of others, are now able by God's assistance to strive hand to hand against the flesh and evil thoughts, and so go forth from the army of the Brotherhood, to the single combat of the wilderness. The third and worst kind of Monks are the Sarabites, who have never been tried under any Rule, nor by the experience of a skilful master, as gold is tried in the furnace, but being soft as lead, and by their works still cleaving to the world, are known by their tonsure to be disloyal to God.
De Generibus Monachorum.

Qui bini aut terni, aut certe singuli sine pastore, non Dominiciis, sed suis inclusi ovi-libus, pro lege eis est desideriorum voluptas: cum quicquid putaverint vel elegerint, hoc dicunt sanctum, et quod noluerint, hoc putant non licere.

Quartum vero genus est monachorum, quod nominatur Gyrovagum, qui tota vita sua per diversas provincias ternis aut quaternis diebus per diversorum cellas hospitantur, semper vagi et nunquam stables, et propriis voluptatibus et gulæ illecebris servientes, et per omnia de-teriores Sarabaitis; de quorum omnium miser-rima conversatione melius est silere, quam loqui. His ergo omissis, ad Cœnobitarum fortissimum genus disponendum, adjuvante Domino, veniamus.
Of the several kinds of Monks.

These in twos or threes, or perhaps singly, and without a shepherd, are shut up, not in our Lord's sheep-folds, but in their own: the pleasure of their desires is to them a law; and whatever they like or make choice of, they will have to be holy, but what they like not, that they consider unlawful.

The fourth kind of Monks are called "Gyrovagi," or wanderers, who travel about all their lives through divers provinces, and stay for two or three days as guests, first in one monastery, then in another; they are always roving, and never settled, giving themselves up altogether to their own pleasures and to the enticements of gluttony, and are generally in all things worse than the Sarabites. Their miserable way of life is fitter to be buried in oblivion than to be the subject of our discourse. Therefore leaving these, let us, by God's assistance, set down a Rule for Cenobites, or Conventuals, who are the most steadfast class of Monks.

CHAPTER II.

WHAT KIND OF MAN THE ABBOT OUGHT TO BE.

An Abbot who is worthy to have charge of a Monastery ought always to remember by what title he is called, and in his actions show forth the character of Ancient. For in the Monastery he is considered to represent the person of Christ, seeing that he is called by His name and title, as the Apostle saith: "Ye have received the spirit of the adoption of children, in which we cry, 'Abba, Father.'" Therefore the Abbot ought to teach, ordain, or command nothing but what is conformable to the commands of our Lord (and God forbid he should do otherwise); but let his commands and doctrine be mingled in the minds of his disciples with the leaven of divine justice.
22 Qualis esse debeat Abbas.

Memor sit semper Abbas, quia doctrinæ suæ vel discipulorum obedientiæ, utrarumque rerum in tremendo judicio Dei facienda erit discussio, sciatque Abbas, culpæ pastoris incumbere, quicquid in ovibus paterfamilias utilitatis minus potuerit invenire. Tantum iterum liber erit, si iniquito vel inobedienti gregi pastoris fuerit omnis diligentia attributa, et morbidis earum actibus universa fuerit cura exhibita: pastor earum in judicio Domini absolutus, dicat cum Prophetæ Domino: "Justitiam tuam non abscondi in corde meo, veritatem tuam, et salutare tuum dixi ¹ ipsi autem contemnentes spreverunt me." ² Et tunc demum inobedientibus curæ suæ ovibus poena sit eis prævalens ipsa mors.

Ergo cum aliquis suscipit nomen Abbas, duplici debet doctrina suis præesse discipulis; id est, omnia bona, et sancta, factis amplius, quam verbis ostendere, ut capacibus discipulis mandata Domini verbis proponat: duris vero corde et simplicioribus, factis suis divina præcepta demonstrat. Omnia vero quæ

What kind of man the Abbot ought to be. 23

Let the Abbot always be mindful that, in the dreadful judgment of God, he must give an account both of his doctrine and of the obedience of his disciples, and that any lack of profit which the master of the family shall find in his sheep, will be laid to the shepherd's fault. But if he have bestowed all diligence on his unquiet and disobedient flock, and employed the utmost care to cure their corrupt manners, he shall then be acquitted in the judgment of the Lord, and may say with the Prophet: "I have not hidden thy justice in my heart, I have told thy truth and thy salvation, but they contemned and despised me." And then finally, death shall be inflicted as a just punishment upon the disobedient sheep.

When, therefore, anyone taketh upon himself the name of Abbot, he ought to govern his disciples with a twofold doctrine; that is, he ought first to show them all virtue and sanctity, more by deeds than by words: hence, to such as are intelligent, he may declare the commandments of God by words; but to the hard-hearted, and to those of the ruder sort, he must

Et "Qui in fratris tui oculo festucam videbas, in tuo trabem non vidisti?"

Non ab eo persona in monasterio discernatur. Non unus plus ametur, quam alius, nisi quem in bonis actibus, aut obedientia invenerit meliorem. Non convertenti ex servitio praeponatur ingenuus, nisi alia rationabilis causa existat. Quod si ita justitia dictante, Abbati visum fuerit, et de cujuslibet ordine id faciat; sin alias, propria teneant loca: quia sive servus, sive liber, omnes in Christo unum sumus, et sub uno Domino aequalem servitutis make these precepts manifest by his actions and by his life. In the next place, let him show by his own deeds, that they ought not to do anything which he has taught them to be unfitting, lest, having preached well to others, “he himself become a castaway;”¹ and God say unto him thus sinning: “Why dost thou declare My justices, and take My testament in thy mouth? Thou hast hated discipline, and cast My speeches behind thee.”² And,—“Thou, who didst see the mote in thy brother’s eye, hast thou not seen the beam that is in thine own?”³

Let there be no distinction of persons in the Monastery. Let not one be loved or favoured more than another, except he be found to surpass the rest in good works and in obedience. Let not the freeman, or one of noble parentage, on coming to Religion, be put before him who is of servile or mean extraction, except there be some other reasonable cause for it. If, upon consideration, the Abbot shall think there is such a just cause, let him put him in any rank or degree he shall please, but otherwise, let every one keep his own place; because “whether bondman or freeman, we are militiam bajulamus: "Quia non est personarum acceptio apud Deum." ¹ Solummodo in hac parte apud ipsum discernimur, si meliores aliis in operibus bonis, et humiles inveniamur. Ergo æqualis sit omnibus ab eo charitas; una præbeatur omnibus, secundum merita disciplina.

In doctrina namque sua Abbas Apostol. licam debet illam semper formam servare, in qua dicitur: "Argue, obsecra, increpa." ² Id est, miscens temporibus tempora, terroribus blandimenta: dirum magistri, pium patris ostendat affectum: id est, indisciplinatos et inquietos debet durius arguere; obedientes autem, et mites et patientes, ut melius proficiant, obsecurae; negligentes autem et contemnentes, ut increpet et corripiat, admonemus. Neque dissimulet peccata delinquendum, sed mox, ut coeperint oriri, radicitus ea, ut præ-

all one in Christ," and bear an equal burthen of servitude under one Lord; "for with God there is no accepting of persons." On one condition only doth He make any difference, and that is, if in good works and in humility we surpass others. Therefore let the Abbot bear equal love to all; and let all be subject to the same orders and discipline, according to their deserts.

For the Abbot ought always, in his doctrine, to observe that apostolic form wherein it is said: "Reprove, entreat, reprehend." That is to say, he ought, as times and occasions require, by tempering fair speeches with threats, to show both the severity of a master and the loving affection of a father. Those who are disorderly and restless he must reprove sharply;
but with such as are obedient, mild, and patient, he should deal by entreaty, exhorting them to go forward in virtue. But the stubborn and negligent let him by all means severely reprove and chastise. Let him not shut his eyes to the sins of offenders, but, as soon as they show themselves, use all possible endeavours utterly to root them out, remembering the fate valet, amputet: memor periculi Heli sacerdotis de Silo. Et honestiores quidem, atque intelligibiles animos, prima vel secunda admonitione verbis corripiat; improbos autem, et duros, ac superbos, vel inobedientes, verberum vel corporis castigatione in ipso initio peccati coercet, sciens scriptum: "Stultus verbis non corrigitur." Et iterum: "Percute filium tuum virga, et liberabis animam ejus a morte."

14 Jan. Meminisse debet semper Abbas, quod est, meminisse, quod dicitur et scire quia cui plus committitur, plus ab eo exigitur: sciatque quam difficilem et arduam rem suscepti, regere animas, et multorum servire moribus. Et alium quidem blandimentis, alium vero incperationibus, alium suasionibus, et secundum uniuscujusque qualitatem vel intelligentiam, ita se omnibus conformet et aptet, ut non solum detrimenta gregis sibi commissi non patiatur, verum etiam in augmentatione boni gregis gaudeat.

of Hell, the Priest of Silo.¹ With the more virtuous and intelligent, let him for the first or second time use words of admonition; but the stubborn, the hard-hearted, the proud and the disobedient, even in the very beginning of their sin, let him chastise with stripes and bodily punishment, knowing that it is written: "The fool is not corrected with words."² And again: "Strike thy son with the rod, and thou shalt deliver his soul from death."³

The Abbot ought always to remember what he is, and what he is called, and that unto whom more is entrusted, from him more is exacted. Let him consider how difficult and hard a task he hath undertaken, to govern souls, and to accommodate himself to the humours of many, some of whom must be led by fair speeches, others by sharp reproofs, and others by persuasion. Therefore let him so adapt himself to the character and intelligence of each one, that he may not only suffer no loss in the flock committed to him, but may even rejoice in the increase and profit of his virtuous flock.
Ante omnia, ne dissimulans, aut parvipendens salutem animarum sibi commis-sarum, plus gerat sollicitudinem de rebus transitoriis, et terrenis atque caducis, sed semper cogitet quia animas suscepit regendas, de quibus et rationem redditurus est. Et ne causetur forte de minori substantia, meminerit scriptum:
"Primum quaerite regnum Dei, et justitiam ejus, et haec omnia adjicientur vobis."¹ Et iterum: "Nihil deest timentibus eum."²

Sciatque quia, qui suscipit animas regendas, præparet se ad rationem reddendam. Et quantum sub cura sua fratum se habere scierit numerum, agnoscat pro certo, quia in die judicii ipsarum omnium animarum est redditurus Domino rationem, sine dubio addita et sua animæ. Et ita timens semper futuram discus-sionem pastoris de creditis ovibus, cum de alienis ratiociniis cavet, redditur de suis solli-citius. Et cum de admonitionibus suis emenda-tionem aliis subministrat, ipse efficitur a vitiiis emendatus.

Above all things, let him take heed not to slight or make little account of the souls committed to his keeping, and have more care for fleeting, worldly things than for them; but let him always consider that he hath undertaken the government of souls for which he shall also have to give an account. And that he may not complain for want of temporal means, let him remember that it is written: "Seek ye first the kingdom of God and His justice, and all things shall be given to ye." And again: "Nothing is wanting to such as fear Him."

Let him know that the man who undertakes the government of souls must prepare himself to give an account of them. And how great soever the number of brethren may be, let him know for certain that at the day of judgment he will have to give to the Lord an account for all their souls as well as for his own. Thus, by fearing the examination which the shepherd must undergo for the flock committed to his charge, he is made solicitous on other men's account as well as careful on his own; and while reclaiming them by his admonitions, he is himself freed from all defects.
CAPUT III.

DE ADHIBENDIS AD CONSILIUM FRATRIBUS.

CHAPTER III.

OF CALLING THE BRETHREN TO COUNCIL.

As often as any weighty matters have to be debated in the monastery, let the Abbot call together all the Brethren, and himself declare what is the point under deliberation. Having heard their counsel, let him prudently weigh it with himself, and then do what he shall judge most expedient. The reason why we ordain that all be called to Council, is because the Lord often revealeth to the younger what is best. And let the Brethren give their advice with all subjection and humility, and presume not stiffly to defend their own opinion, but rather leave it to the discretion of the Abbot; and what he shall think more expedient, to that let them all submit; for, as it becometh the disciples to obey their master, so doth it behove the master to dispose all things with forethought and justice.
De adhibendis ad Consilium Fratribus.

In omnibus igitur omnes magistram sequatur regulam, neque ab ea temere declinetur a quoquam. Nullus in monasterio sequatur cordis proprii voluntatem, neque praesumat quisquam cum Abbate suo proterve intus, aut foris monasterium contendere. Quod si præsumperit, regulari discipline subjaceat. Ipse tamen Abbas cum timore Dei, et observazione regulæ omnia faciat; sciens se procul dubio de omnibus judiciis suis sæquissimo judici Deo rationem redditurum. Si qua vero minora agenda sunt in monasterii utilitatisibus, seniorum tantum utatur consilio, sicut scriptum est: "Omnia fac cum consilio, et post factum non poenitebis." ¹

Of calling the Brethren to Council. 35

In all things, therefore, let all follow the Rule as their master, and from it let no man rashly swerve. Let no one in the monastery follow his own will. Neither let any one presume, within or without the monastery, to contend insolently with his Abbot. If he do so, let him be subjected to regular discipline. Let the Abbot, however, do all things with the fear of God, and in observance of the Rule, knowing that he shall undoubtedly give an account of all his judgments to God, the most just Judge. If any matters of less moment have to be done for the benefit of the monastery, let him take counsel with the seniors only, as it is written: "Do all things with counsel, and thou shalt not afterwards repent thee of it."¹

CHAPTER V.

OF THE OBEDIENCE OF DISCIPLES.

The first degree of humility is obedience without delay. This beseemeth those who, either through fear of hell or for the glory of life everlasting, count nothing more dear to them than Christ. These, presently, as soon as anything is commanded them by the Superior, make no delay in doing it, just as if the command had come from God. Of such, our Lord saith: "At the hearing of the ear he hath obeyed Me."\(^1\) And to superiors and teachers He saith: "He that heareth you, heareth Me."

Therefore, such as these, leaving presently all their occupations, and forsaking their own will, leave unfinished what they were about, and with the speedy foot of obedience follow by deeds the voice of him who commands. And thus, as it were in one and the same moment discipuli opera, in velocitate timoris Dei, ambæ res communiter cìius explicantur, quibus ad vitam aëternam gradiendi amor incumbit. Ideo angustam viam arripiunt: unde Dominus dicit: "Angusta via est, quæ ducit ad vitam;"\(^1\) ut non suo arbitrio viventes, vel desideriis suis, et voluptatibus obedientes, sed ambulantes alieno judicio et imperio, in coenobiis degentes, Abbatem sibi præesse desiderant. Sine dubio hi tales illum Domini sententiam imitantur, qua dicit: "Non veni facere voluntatem meam, sed ejus qui misit me."\(^2\)

23 Jan. Sed hæc ipsa obedientia tunc acepta- bilis erit Deo, et dulcis hominibus, si quod jubitur, non tremide, non tarde, non tepide, aut cum murmure, vel cum responso nolentis efficiatur; quia obedientia, quæ majoribus præbetur, Deo exhibetur. Ipse enim dixit: "Qui vos audit, me audit."\(^3\) Et cum bono animo a discipulis præberi oportet, quia "hilarem datorem diligit Deus."\(^4\) Nam cum malo animo si obedient discipulus, et non solum

the command of the master and the perfect work of the disciple with the fear of God, go both jointly together, and are speedily effected by those who thirst after life everlasting. These take the narrow way, of which the Lord saith: “Narrow is the way which leadeth to life.”

They live not according to their own will, nor follow their own desires and pleasures, but, abiding in monasteries, they will to have an Abbot over them, and walk according to his command and direction. Without doubt these fulfil that saying of our Lord: “I came not to do my own will, but the will of Him Who sent me.”

This obedience will then be acceptable to God and pleasing to men, if what is commanded be not done fearfully, slowly, coldly, or with murmuring, or an answer showing unwillingness; because the obedience which is given to superiors is given to God, Who hath said: “He that heareth you, heareth Me.” Hence it ought to be done by the disciples with a good will, because God “loveth a cheerful giver.” If the disciple obey with ill-will, and murmur, not only in words, but also in heart, although he fulfil what is commanded him, it will not be acceptable to God, Who considereth the heart of the murmurer. For such a work he shall not have any reward, but rather incurreth the penalty of mururers, unless he amend and make satisfaction.

DE TACITURNITATE.

CHAPTER VI.

OF SILENCE.

Let us act in accordance with that saying of the Prophet; "I have said: I will keep my ways, that I offend not with my tongue. I have been watchful over my mouth: I held my peace and humbled myself, and was silent from speaking even good things." 1 If, therefore, according to this saying of the Prophet we are at times to abstain, for silence sake, even from good talk, how much more ought we to refrain from evil words, on account of the guilt and penalty of sin! Therefore, because of the importance of silence, let leave to speak be seldom given, even to perfect disciples, although their words be of good and holy matters, tending unto edification; because it is written: "In much speaking, thou shalt not escape sin." 2 And in another place: "Death and life are in the hands of the tongue." 3 For Nam loqui et docere magistrum condecet: tacere, et audire discipulo convenit.

Et ideo, si quae requirenda sunt a Priore, cum omni humilitate et subjectione reverentiae requirantur, ne plus videatur loqui quam expedit. Scurrilitates vero vel verba otiosa et risum moventia, aeterna clausura in omnibus locis damnamus, et ad tale eloquium discipulum aperi re os non permittimus.
it behoveth a master to speak and teach; and it beseemeth a disciple to hold his peace and listen.

If, therefore, anything must be asked of the Prior, let it be done with all humility, subjection, and reverence, that he who asks may not seem to speak more than is necessary. But as for buffoonery, idle words, or such as move to laughter, we utterly condemn and forbid them in all places, nor do we allow a disciple to open his mouth to give them utterance.
CAPUT VII.

DE HUMILITATE.

25 Jan. CLAMAT nobis Scriptura divina, fratres,
25 Sept. dicens: "Omnis, qui se exaltat, humiliabitur; et qui se humiliat, exaltabitur."
Cum hæc ergo dicit, ostendit omnem exaltationem genus esse superbìæ: quod se cavere Propheta indicat, dicens: "Domine, non est exaltatum cor meum, neque elati sunt oculi mei; neque ambulavi in magnis, neque in mirabilibus super me." Sed quid? "Si non humiliiter sentiebam, sed exaltavi animam meam; sicut ablactatus super matre sua, ita retributio in anima mea."

Unde, fratres, si summae humilitatis volumus culmen attingere, et ad exaltationem illam

1 Luc. xiv. 11.—2 Ps. cxxx. 1. 2.
CHAPTER VII.

OF HUMILITY.

The Holy Scripture crieth to us, Brethren, saying: "Every one who exalteth himself shall be humbled, and he who humbleth himself shall be exalted."¹ By these words it declares to us, that all exaltation is a kind of pride, which the Prophet showeth must carefully be avoided when he says: "Lord, my heart is not exalted, neither are my eyes lifted up; neither have I walked in great things, nor in wonders above myself." But why? "If I did not think humbly, but exalted my soul: as a child weaned from his mother, so wilt Thou reward my soul."²

Wherefore, Brethren, if we would attain to true humility, and speedily reach that heavenly cælestem, ad quam per præsentis vitæ humilitatem ascenditur, volumus velociter pervenire: actibus nostris ascendentibus, scala erigenda est, quæ in somno Jacob apparuit, per quam et descendentes et ascendentes Angeli monstrabantur.

Non aliud sine dubio descensus ille et ascensus a nobis intelligitur; nisi exaltatione descendere, et humilitate ascendere.

Scala vero ipsa erecta, nostra est vita in seculo, quæ humiliato corde a Domino erigitur ad cœlum. Latera enim hujus scalæ dicimus nostrum esse corpus et animam, in quibus lateribus diversos gradus humilitatis, vel disciplinæ, vocatio divina ascendendos inseruit.

Primus itaque humilitatis gradus est, si timorem Dei sibi ante oculos semper ponens, oblivionem omnino fugiat, et semper sit memor omnium quæ præcepit Deus, qualiter contemnentes Deum in gehennam pro peccatis incidunt, et vitam æternam, quæ timentibus Deum præparata est, animo suo semper revolvat. Et custodiens se omni hora a peccatis et vitiiis, id est cogitationum, linguæ, oculorum, manuum, pedum vel voluntatis propriae; sed et desideria carnis amputare festinet.
exaltation, which is won through the lowliness of this present life; by our ascending actions a ladder must be set up, such as appeared in sleep to Jacob, whereon he saw Angels descending and ascending.

That descent and ascent signifieth nothing else, but that we descend by exalting, and ascend by humbling ourselves.

The ladder thus erected, is our life here in this world, which through humility of heart is lifted up by our Lord to heaven. The sides of this ladder we understand to be our body and soul, in which the Divine Majesty hath placed divers degrees of humility and discipline, which we must ascend.

The first degree, then, of humility is that a man always have the fear of God before his eyes, and not be forgetful of himself. Moreover to be mindful of all that God hath commanded, and remember that such as contemn God, fall into hell for their sins, and that everlasting life is prepared for such as fear Him. And keeping himself from all sin and vice, of thought, word, eyes, hands, feet, and self-will, let him thus speedily cut off all the desires of the flesh.

Let him think that he is always beheld from heaven by God; that all his actions, wheresoever he may be, lie open to the eye of God, and are at every hour presented before Him by His Angels. The Prophet declareth this, when, in these words, he saith that God is always present to our thoughts: "God searcheth the heart and reins." 1 And again: "The Lord knoweth the thoughts of men, that they are vain." 2 He also saith: "Thou hast understood my thoughts afar off;" 3 and: "The thought of man shall confess to Thee." 4 In order therefore that the humble Brother may be careful to avoid evil thoughts, let him always say in his heart: "Then shall I be without spot before Him, if I shall keep me from my iniquity." 5

The Scripture also forbiddeth us to do our own will, saying: "Leave thy own will and desire." 6 And again: "We beg of God in prayer, that His Will may be done in us." 7

With good reason, therefore, are we taught to beware of doing our own will, since the Scripture saith: "There are ways which to men seem right, the end whereof plungeth

fundum inferni demergit.”¹ Et cum item cavemus illud, quod de negligentibus dictum est: “Corrupti sunt, et abominabiles facti sunt in voluptatibus suis.”² In desideriis vero carnis nobis Deum credamus esse præsentem semper, quam dicit Prophetæ Domine: “Domine, ante te est omne desiderium meum.”³

Cavendum ergo ideo malum desiderium, quia mors secus introitum delectationis posita est. Unde Scriptura præcipit, dicens: “Post concupiscientias tuas non eas.”⁴ Ergo si oculi Domini speculantur bonos et malos, et Dominus de cælo semper respicit super filios hominum, ut videat si est intelligens, aut requires Deum; et ab Angelis nobis deputatis quotidie die noctuque Domino factori nostro et Creatori omnium Deo opera nostra nunciantur: cavendum est ergo omni hora, fratres, sicut in Psalmo dicit Prophetæ: ne nos declinantes in malum, et inutiles factos,⁵ aliqua hora aspiciat Deus, et pariendo nobis in hoc tempore (quia pius est, et expectat nos converti in melius), ne dicat nobis in futuro: “Hæc fecisti, et tacuī.”⁶

even into the deep pit of hell.” ¹ And again, speaking of the negligent: “They are corrupted, and made abominable in their pleasures.” ² But in the desires of the flesh, we ought to believe God to be always present with us, according to that saying of the Prophet, speaking to the Lord: “O Lord, all my desire is before Thee.” ³

Let us then take heed of evil desires, because death sitteth close to the entrance of delight. Wherefore the Scripture commandeth us: “Follow not thy concupiscences.” ⁴ If then the eyes of the Lord behold both good and bad; if He ever looketh down from heaven upon the sons of men to see who is understanding or seeking God; if our works are told to Him day and night by our Angel Guardians; we must always take heed, Brethren, lest, as the Prophet saith in the psalm, “God behold us some time declining to evil, and become unprofitable;” ⁵ and though He spare us for the present, because He is merciful, and expecteth our conversion, He may yet say to us hereafter: “These things thou hast done, and I have held My peace.” ⁶
De Humilitate.

20 Jan. Secundus humilitatis gradus est, si propriam quis non amans voluntatem, desideria sua non delectetur implere; sed vo-

Of Humility.

The second degree of humility is, if anyone, not wedded to his own will, seeks not to satisfy his desires, but carries out that saying of our Lord: "I came not to do My own Will, but the Will of Him Who sent me." 1 The Scripture likewise saith: "Self-will engendereth punishment, and necessity purchaseth a crown."

The third degree of humility is, that a man submit himself for the love of God, with all obedience to his superior, imitating thereby our Lord, of Whom the Apostle saith: "He was made obedient even unto death." 2

The fourth degree of humility is, that if, in obedience, things that are hard, contrary, and injurious, be done to him, he embrace them with a quiet conscience, and in suffering them, grow not weary, nor give over, since the Scripture saith: "He only that persevereth to the end shall be saved." 3 And again: "Let thy heart be comforted, and expect the Lord." 4 And showing that the faithful man ought to bear all things for our Lord, be they never so contrary, it saith in the person of the sufferers: "For Thee we suffer death all the day long; we are esteemed as sheep for the slaughter." 5 And being assured by hope of ² Feb. Quintus humilitatis gradus est, si omnes cogitationes malas cordi suo advenientes, vel mala a se absconse comissa per humilem confessionem Abbati non celaverit suo. Hortatur nos de hac re Scriptura, dicens: "Revela Domino viam tuam, et spera in eo." ⁶ Et item dicit: "Confitemini Domino, quoniam reward from God's hands they go on rejoicing and saying: "But in all things we overcome by the help of Him Who hath loved us."¹ Likewise in another place the Scripture saith:

"Thou hast proved us, O Lord, Thou hast tried us, as silver is tried, with fire. Thou hast brought us into the snare; Thou hast laid tribulation upon our backs."² And to show that we ought to be under a Prior or Superior, it goes on to say: "Thou hast placed men over our heads."³ Moreover, in order to fulfil the precepts of the Lord by patience in adversities and injuries: "When struck on one cheek, they offer the other; to him who taketh away their coat, they leave their cloak also;
and being constrained to carry a burthen one mile, they go two."⁴ With Paul the Apostle they suffer false Brethren and persecutions, and bless those who revile and speak ill of them.⁵

The fifth degree of humility is to manifest to the Abbot, by humble confession, all the evil thoughts of his heart, and the secret faults committed by him. The Scripture exhorteth us thereunto, saying: "Reveal thy way to the Lord, and hope in Him."⁶ And again: "Confess thy way to the Lord because He is good;

Et item Prophetæ: “Delictum meum cognitum tibi feci, et injustitias meas non operui. Dixi, pronuntiabo adversum me injustitias meas Domino, et tu remisisti impietatem cordis mei.”

Sextus humilitatis gradus est, si omni vilitate vel extremitate contentus sit Monachus, et ad omnia quæ sibi in junguntur, velut operarium malum et indignum se judicet, dicens cum Prophetæ: “Ad nihilum redactus sum, et nescivi: ut jumentum factus sum apud te, et ego semper tecum.”

Septimus humilitatis gradus est, si omnibus se inferiorum et viliorem, non solum sua lingua prontiet, sed etiam intimo cordis credat affectu, humilians se, et dicens cum Prophetæ: “Ego autem sum vermis, et non homo, opprobrium hominum, et abjectio plebis.” Exaltatus sum, et humiliatus, et confusus.”

Et item: “Bonum mihi, quod humiliasti me, ut discam mandata tua.”

because His mercy endureth for ever." ¹ Furthermore the Prophet saith: "I have made known unto Thee mine offence, and mine injustices I have not hidden. I have said, I will declare openly against myself mine injustices to the Lord; and Thou hast pardoned the wickedness of my heart."

The sixth degree of humility is, if a Monk be content with all that is meanest and poorest, and in everything enjoined him, think himself an evil and worthless servant, saying with the Prophet: "I have been brought to nothing, and knew it not. I have become as a beast before Thee, and I am always with Thee." ²

The seventh degree of humility is, not only to pronounce with his tongue, but also in his very heart to believe himself to be the most abject, and inferior to all; and humbling himself, to say with the Prophet: "I am a worm and no man, the reproach of men and the outcast of the people. ³ I have been exalted, humbled, and confounded." ⁴ And again: "It is good for me that Thou hast humbled me, that I may learn Thy commandments." ⁵

The eighth degree of humility is, that a Monk do nothing but what the common rule of the Monastery, or the example of his seniors, teacheth and exhorteth him to do.

The ninth degree of humility is, for a Monk to refrain his tongue from much speaking, and be silent till a question be asked him, remembering the saying of the Scripture: "In many words thou shalt not avoid sin," and "a talkative man shall not be directed upon the earth."

The tenth degree of humility is, not to be easily moved and prompt to laugh, for it is written: "The fool exalteth his voice in laughter."

The eleventh degree of humility is that when a Monk speaketh, he do so, gently and without laughter; humbly, with gravity or few words, and discreetly; and be not clamorous in his voice; for it is written: "A wise man is known by few words."

The twelfth degree of humility is, that a Monk not only have humility in his heart, but show it also in his exterior, to all that behold him; so that whether he be at work, or in the Oratory, the garden, the field, or on the way; whether he sit, walk, or stand, let him always, with head bent down, and eyes fixed upon the earth, think himself guilty for his sins, and about to be presented before the dreadful judgment of God, ever saying to himself with the Publican in the Gospel: "Lord, I a sinner, am not worthy to lift up mine eyes to heaven."¹ And again with the Prophet: "I am bowed down and humbled on every side."²

Thus, when all these degrees of humility have been ascended, the Monk will presently come to that love of God which is perfect and casteth out fear; to that love, whereby everything, which at the beginning he observed through fear, he shall now begin to do by custom, without any labour, and as it were naturally; not now through fear of hell, but for the love of Christ, out of a good custom, and a delight in virtue. All this our Lord will vouchsafe to work by the Holy Ghost in His servant, now that he is cleansed from defects and sins.

HOW MANY PSALMS ARE TO BE SAID IN THE NIGHT-HOURS.

In winter, having first said the verse, "O God incline unto mine aid, O Lord make haste to help me," the words, "O Lord open my lips, and my mouth shall declare Thy praise," are next to be repeated three times. After this the third Psalm is said, with a "Glory be to the Father," at the end. Then the ninety-fourth Psalm is to be recited or sung with an antiphon. Let a hymn * follow next, and then six psalms with antiphons. These being said, and a versicle added, let the Abbot give a blessing, and then, all being seated, let three lessons be read by the Brethren in turns, from the book lying on the lectern. After every lesson, let a responsory be sung. Let two of them be without a "Gloria," but after the third let it be added by the Cantor, and as soon as he has begun it, let all rise from their seats out of honour and reverence to the Holy Trinity.

Let the divinely inspired books, both of the Old and New Testament, be read at Matins, together with the expositions made upon them by the most famous, orthodox, and Catholic Fathers. After these three lessons and their responsories, let six other psalms follow, to be sung with an Alleluia. Then let a lesson from the Apostle be said by heart, and after that a verse and the supplication of the Litanies, that is, "Kyrie eleison." And thus let the Matins or Night-watches be brought to an end.

HOW MATINS, OR NIGHT-OFFICE, IS TO BE CELEBRATED IN SUMMER.

From Easter till the first of November, let the same number of psalms be recited, as we have before appointed; but let not the lessons be read, because of the shortness of the nights. Instead of these three lessons, let one out of the Old Testament be said by heart, followed by a short responsory, and let all the rest be performed as we have before arranged, so that without counting the third, and the ninety-fourth psalms, there be never fewer than twelve psalms said at Matins.

HOW MATINS, OR NIGHT-OFFICE, IS TO BE CELEBRATED ON SUNDAYS.

On Sunday let them rise more seasonably for Matins, and therein observe the following order. When six psalms and the versicle have been sung, as we before arranged, let all sit down in a becoming and orderly manner, and let four lessons with their responsories be read from the book; to the fourth responsory only, let the Cantor add a "Gloria," at the beginning of which all shall rise out of reverence. After these lessons, let six more psalms follow in order, with their antiphons and versicle as before. Then let four other lessons with their responsories be read in the same way as the former. Next, let three canticles be said out of the Prophets, such as the Abbot shall appoint; these must be sung with "Alleluia."

When the versicle has been said, and the Abbot has given his blessing, let four other lessons out of the New Testament be read, in the same order as before.

After the fourth responsory, let the Abbot begin the Hymn "Te Deum laudamus," and this being said, let him read a lesson from the Gospel, while all stand with reverential fear. At the end of this let all answer, "Amen," and then let the Abbot go on with the Hymn: "Te decret laus." Then, after the giving of the blessing, let Lauds begin. This order is always to be observed in singing Matins on Sundays, both in Summer and in Winter, except perchance (which God forbid) they rise late, for then the lessons or responsories must be somewhat shortened. But let good care be taken that this do not happen; and if it do, let him, by whose negligence it comes to pass, make satisfaction for it in the Oratory.

But on other days, let the Canticle out of the Prophets be said, each on its own day, according to the practice of the Roman Church. After these, let the Praises (that is, the Laudate) follow; then a lesson from the Apostles, to be said by heart, a responsory, hymn, and versicle, a Canticle out of the Gospels, and so conclude.

Let not the celebration of Lauds, or Evening-song, ever terminate, unless at the end the Lord's prayer be said by the Prior, in the hearing of all, because of the thorns of scandal which are wont to arise; that the Brethren, being reminded by the covenant of this prayer, in which they say: "Forgive us our trespasses as we forgive them that trespass against us," may purge themselves from these faults. But in celebrating the other hours, let the last part only be said aloud, that all may answer: "But deliver us from evil."

AT WHAT SEASONS "ALLELUIA" MUST BE SAID.

From the holy feast of Easter until Whitsuntide, let "Alleluia" be said without intermission, as well with the psalms, as with the responsories. From Whitsuntide till the beginning of Lent, let it be said at all the Night-offices, with the six last psalms only. But on every Sunday out of Lent, let the Canticles, Lauds, Prime, Tierce, Sext and None, be said with "Alleluia." Let Even-song, however, be said with antiphons. "SEVEN times a day," saith the Prophet, "have I sung praises unto Thee." ¹ This sacred number of seven shall be accomplished by us if at the times of Lauds, Prime, Tierce, Sext, None, Even-song, and Complin, we perform the office and duty of our service. It was of these hours the Prophet said: "Seven times in the day I have sung praise to Thee." ¹ For of the Night-watches, or Matins, the same Prophet says: "At midnight I did arise to confess to Thee." ² At these times therefore, let us give praise to our Creator for the judgments of His justice; that is at Lauds, Prime, Tierce, Sext, None, Even-song, and Complin; and in the night let us rise to confess unto Him.

We have already arranged the order of the Office for the Nocturns, or Lauds; let us now dispose of the Hours that follow. At Prime, let three psalms be said separately, and not under one "Gloria." Presently after the verse: "O God incline unto mine aid," let the hymn of the same Hour follow, before the psalms be begun. At the end of the psalms, let there be recited one lesson, a versicle, and "Kyrie eleison," and therewith let that Hour conclude. Tierce, Sext and None, are to be recited in the same way; that is, the prayer, versicle, and hymns of these same Hours, three psalms, then a lesson, versicle, and "Kyrie eleison," and so let the Hour conclude. IN WHAT ORDER THE PSALMS ARE TO BE SAID.

In the day Hours, let the verse "O God incline unto mine aid, O Lord make haste to help me," always be said first, and after it a "Gloria." Then the hymn proper to each Hour. On Sundays, at Prime, there must be said four divisions of the hundred-and-eighteenth Psalm. At the rest of the Hours, to wit, at Tierce, Sext and None, let there be said three divisions of the same hundred-and-eighteenth Psalm. But on Monday at Prime, let three psalms be said, that is, the first, second, and sixth. In the same way at Prime, let three psalms be said in order every day, till Sunday, as far as the nineteenth Psalm; yet in such a way that the ninth and seventeenth Psalms be divided Ad Tertiam vero, et Sextam, et Nonam secundae feriae novem capitula, quae residua sunt de centesimo decimo octavo Psalm, ipsa terna capitula per easdem Horas dicantur. Expono igitur Psalm centesimo octavo decimo duobus diebus, id est, Dominica et secunda feria, tertia feria jam ad Tertiam, Sextam, vel Nonam psallantur terni Psalmi, a centesimo nono decimo usque ad centesimum vigesimum septimum, id est, Psalmi novem. Quique Psalmi semper usque ad Dominicam per easdem Horas itidem repetantur: Hymnorum nihilominus, Lectionum vel Versuum dispositione uniformi cunctis diebus servata, et ita scilicet, ut semper Dominica a centesimo octavo decimo incipiatur.

Vespera autem quotidie quatuor Psalmorum modulatione canatur. into two "Glorias." Thus it will fall out that on Sunday at Matins we shall always begin from the twentieth Psalm.

At Tierce, Sext, and None, on Mondays, let the remaining nine divisions of the hundred-and-eighteenth Psalm be said, three at a time, during these same Hours. On two days therefore, to wit, Sunday and Monday, the hundred-and-eighteenth Psalm being gone through, let the psalms at Tierce, Sext, and None, on Tuesdays be sung in order, three at a time, from the hundred-and-nineteenth to the hundred-and-twenty-seventh, that is nine psalms. These psalms are always to be repeated at the same Hours for the rest of the week till Sunday; a uniform order also of the hymns, lessons, and versicles, being every day observed, so that every Sunday they may begin with the hundred-and-eighteenth Psalm.

Even-song is to be sung every day with four psalms, which are to begin from the hundred-and-ninth, and go on to the hundred-and-forty-seventh, such only being excepted as are set apart for other Hours, that is, from the hundred-and-seventeenth, to the hundred-and-twenty-seventh, and from the hundred-and-thirty-third to the hundred-and-forty-second; all the rest are to be said in Even-song. And because there fall three psalms short, those of the aforesaid number that are longer, must be divided, that is, the hundred-and-thirty-eighth, the hundred-and-forty-third, and the hundred-and-forty-fourth. But let the hundred-and-sixteenth, because it is short, be joined with the hundred-and-fifteenth.

The order, therefore, of the psalms for Even-song being set down, let other matters such as lessons, responsories, hymns, versicles, and canticles, be arranged as before. At Complin let the same psalms be repeated every day: that is, the fourth, ninetieth, and the hundred-and-thirty-third. The order of the day office being thus disposed of, let all the psalms which remain be equally portioned out into seven Night-Watches, or Matins, and such of them as are too long, divided into two. Let twelve psalms be appointed for every night. If this arrangement and distribution of the psalms displease anyone, let him, if he think good, order them otherwise, provided however he take care, that every week the whole psalter of one hundred-and-fifty psalms be sung; and that on Sunday at Matins, they begin it again; for Monks show themselves to

CHAPTER XIX.

OF THE ORDER AND DISCIPLINE OF SINGING.

We believe that the Divine Presence is everywhere, and that the eyes of the Lord behold both the good and the bad, in all places; but we believe this especially and without any doubt, when we assist at the Work of God. Let us, therefore, always be mindful of what the Prophet saith: "Serve ye the Lord in fear." And again: "Sing ye His praises with understanding." And: "In the sight of Angels I will sing praise unto Thee." Therefore, let us consider in what manner and with what reverence it behoveth us to be in the sight of God and of the Angels, and so let us sing in choir, that mind and voice may accord together.
CAPUT XX.

DE REVERENTIA ORATIONIS.

25 Feb. Si cum hominibus potentibus volumus 27 Junii aliqua suggerere, non præsumimus, nisi cum humilitate, et reverentia: quanto magis Domino Deo universorum cum omni humilitate, et puritatis devotione supplicandum est? Et non in multiloquio, sed in puritate cordis, et compunctione lacrymarum nos exaudiri sciamus.¹ Et ideo brevis debet esse et pura oratio; nisi forte ex affectu inspirationis divinæ gratiæ protendatur. In Conventu tamen omnino brevietur oratio, et facto signo a Priore, omnes pariter surgant.

CHAPTER XX.

OF REVERENCE AT PRAYER.

If, when we wish to make some suggestion to the powerful, we presume not to speak to them except with humility and reverence; with how much greater reason ought we to present our supplications in all humility and purity of devotion, to the Lord God of all things? And let us bear in mind, that we shall be heard, not for our many words, but for our purity of heart, and our penitential tears.¹ Our prayer, therefore, ought to be short and pure, unless perchance it be prolonged by the inspiration of Divine Grace. Yet, let all prayer made in common be short, and when the sign has been given by the Prior, let all rise together.

DE DECANIS MONASTERII.

23 Feb. Si major fuerit Congregatio, eligantur

CHAPTER XXI.

OF THE DEANS OF THE MONASTERY.

If the Community be large, let men of good repute and saintly lives be chosen from among the Brethren, and appointed Deans, to be careful over their Deaneries in all things, according to the command of God, and the precepts of their Abbot. Let such men be chosen for Deans as the Abbot may safely rely upon to share his burthens; and let them not be chosen by order, but according to the merit of their lives and learning. And if perchance any of them, being puffed up with pride, shall be found blameworthy, and being thrice rebuked, shall show no sign of amendment, let him be put out of office, and a more worthy man substituted in his place. Concerning the Provost, we make the same ordinance.

CHAPTER XXII.

HOW THE MONKS ARE TO SLEEP.

Let them sleep, each in separate beds, and receive, according to the appointment of the Abbot, bed-clothes befitting their condition. If it be possible, let them all sleep in one place; but if the number do not allow of this, let them repose by tens or twenties in one place with their Seniors who have care of them. And let a candle burn constantly in that same cell until morning. Let them sleep clothed, and girt with girdles or cords, but let them not have knives by their sides while they sleep, lest perchance they be hurt therewith; and thus let the Monks always be ready, that when the sign is given they may rise speedily, and hasten, each one, to come before his Brother to the work of God, but yet with all gravity and modesty.

Let not the younger Brethren have beds in a place apart by themselves, but separated among the Elders. And when they rise to the Work of God, let them gently encourage one another, because of the excuses of those who are sluggish.
CAPUT XXIII.

DE EXCOMMUNICATIONE CULPARUM.

28 Feb. Si quis frater contumax, aut inobediens, aut superbus, aut murmurans, vel in aliquid contrarius existens sanctae Regulæ, et præceptis Seniorum suorum contemtor repertus fuerit; hic secundum Domini nostri præceptum admoneatur semel, et secundo secrete a Senioribus suis. Si non emendaverit, objurgetur publice coram omnibus. Si vero neque sic correxerit, si intelligit, qualis poena sit, excommunicationi subjaceat. Sin autem improbus est, vindictæ corporali subdatur.
CHAPTER XXIII.

OF EXCOMMUNICATION FOR OFFENCES.

If any Brother be found stubborn, disobedient, proud, murmuring, or in any way gainsaying the holy Rule, or contemning the orders of his Elders, let him, in accordance with the precept of the Lord, be once or twice secretly admonished by them. If he amend not, let him be reprehended publicly before all. But if in spite of all this he do not correct himself, let him be subjected to excommunication, provided he understand the nature of the punishment. But if he remain obstinate, let him undergo corporal chastisement.

CHAPTER XXIV.

WHAT THE MANNER OF EXCOMMUNICATION OUGHT TO BE.

The measure of excommunication or punishment should be meted out according to the quality of the faults; but the estimation of their gravity shall depend upon the judgment of the Abbot. If any Brother be found guilty of small faults, let him be deprived of eating at table with the rest. The manner of his punishment shall be as follows: In the Oratory he shall not intone a psalm or antiphon, nor read a lesson, until he has made satisfaction. He shall take his portion of food after the Brethren have taken theirs, in such quantity, and at such time as the Abbot shall deem fit. If, for example, the Brethren take their refectation at the sixth hour, let him take his at the ninth; if the Brethren take theirs at the ninth, let him take his in the evening, until by due satisfaction he obtain pardon.

OF MORE GRIEVous FAULTS.

Let that Brother who is guilty of more grievous faults be denied both the table and the Oratory. Let none of the Brethren discourse with him, nor keep him company. Let him be alone at the work enjoined him, continuing in penance and sorrow, knowing that terrible sentence of the Apostle, who saith, "That such a one is delivered over to Satan for the destruction of the flesh, that his spirit may be saved in the day of our Lord."¹ Let him take his portion of food alone, in such measure and at such time as the Abbot shall think fit: let not any bless him as he passes.

DE IIS, QUI SINE JUSSIONE ABBATIS JUNGUNTUR EXCOMMUNICATIS.

CHAPTER XXVI.

OF THOSE WHO KEEP COMPANY WITH THE EXCOMMUNICATED WITHOUT THE COMMAND OF THE ABBOT.

If any Brother shall presume, without the command of the Abbot, to join himself in any way to the excommunicated Brother, or to talk with him, or send him a message, let him incur the same penalty of excommunication.

CHAPTER XXVII.

HOW THE ABBOT OUGHT TO CARE FOR THE EXCOMMUNICATED.

Let the Abbot have a special care of the offending Brethren, for, "They that are well need not the physician, but they that are sick." He ought, therefore, like a wise physician, to use every means in their regard, and covertly send them as comforters, some elderly and discreet Brothers to console, as it were secretly, the wavering one, and win him to make humble satisfaction. Let them comfort him, that he be not swallowed up by overmuch sorrow, but as the Apostle saith: "Let charity be confirmed towards him, and let all pray for him."²

The Abbot ought especially to have a care for the offending Brethren, and with all pru-
Abbas circa delinquentes fratres, et omni sagacitate et industria curare, ne aliquam de ovibus sibi creditis perdat. Noverit enim se infirmarum curam suscepisse animarum, non super sanas tyrannidem: et metuat Prophetæ comminationem, per quem dicit Deus: "Quod crassum videbatis, assumebatis: et quod debile erat, projiciebatis." ¹ Et Pastoris boni pium imitetur exemplum, qui relictis nonaginta novem ovibus in montibus, abiit unam ovem, quæ erraverat, querere; cujus infrimitati in tantum compassus est, ut eam in sacris humeris suis dignaretur imponere, et sic reportare ad gregem." ²

Let him fear the threat of the Prophet, by whom God saith: "What ye saw to be fat, that ye took to yourselves, and what was diseased, that ye threw away."¹ Let him imitate the loving kindness of the "Good Shepherd," Who "leaving ninety-nine sheep in the mountains, went to seek one that had gone astray, on whose infirmity He took such compassion, that He vouchsafed to lay it on His own shoulders, and thus carry it back to the flock."²

DE IIS, QUI SÆPIUS CORRECTI NON EMENDANTUR.

5 Mar. Si quis frater frequenter correptus pro 5 Julii qualibet culpa, si etiam excommunicatus non emendaverit, acrior ei accedat correctio, id est, ut verberum vindicta in eum procedat. Quod si nec ita se correxerit, aut forte (quod absit) in superbiam elatus etiam defendere voluerit opera sua, tunc Abbas faciat quod sapiens medicus: si exhibuit fomenta, si unguenta adhortationum, si medicamina Scripturarum divinarum, si ad ultimum ustionem excommunicationis, vel plagas virgarum, et jam si viderit nihil suam prævalere industriam; adhibeat etiam (quod majus est) suam et omnium fratrum pro eo orationem, ut Dominus, qui omnia potest, operetur salutem circa infirmum fratrem. OF THOSE WHO, BEING OFTEN CORRECTED, DO NOT AMEND.

If any Brother after being corrected, or even excommunicated for any fault, doth not amend, let a sharper correction be administered to him; that is to say, let him be punished with stripes. But if for all that he do not correct himself, or being puffed up with pride (which God forbid) shall also defend his doings; then let the Abbot act like a wise physician, and after applying the fomentations and ointments of good exhortation, the medicines of the Divine Scriptures, and last of all the punishment of excommunication and of scourging; then, if he find that his labours have no effect,—let him add what is more than all this,—his own prayer, and the prayer of the Brethren for

CHAPTER XXIX.

WHETHER THE BRETHREN WHO LEAVE THE MONASTERY OUGHT TO BE RECEIVED AGAIN.

If that Brother, who through his own fault leaveth, or is cast out of the Monastery, be willing to return, he shall first promise to amend the fault for which he went forth; then let him be received into the lowest rank, that by this, his humility may be tried. If he go out again, let him be received back till the third time. But after this let him know that all entrance will be denied him.

HOW CHILDREN ARE TO BE CORRECTED.

Every age and understanding ought to have a measure of government suitable to it. WHAT KIND OF MAN THE CELLARER OF THE MONASTERY OUGHT TO BE.

Let there be chosen out of the Community as Cellarer of the Monastery, a man who is wise, ripe in manners, and sober; not a great eater, not haughty, nor hasty, nor insulting; not slow, nor wasteful, but fearing God, and acting as a father to the whole Brotherhood. Let him have care of all things, and without the command of the Abbot do nothing. Let him take heed of all that is ordered, and not sadden his Brethren. But if any Brother shall perchance ask anything of him that is not reasonable, let him not, by contemptuously spurning, grieve him, but reasonably and with all humility refuse what he asks for amiss.

Let him look upon all the vessels and goods of the Monastery as if they were the sacred vessels of the Altar. Let him neglect nothing; neither let him be covetous, nor prodigal, nor wasteful of the good of the Monastery, but do all things with moderation, and according to the command of his Abbot.

Above all things, let him have humility, and give at least a gentle answer unto him, on whom he hath nothing else to bestow; for it is written: "A good word is above the best gift."² Let him have under his care all that the Abbot shall appoint, and presume not to meddle with anything from which he shall forbid him. Let him give to the Brethren their appointed allowance of food, without arrogance or delay, that they be not scandalized; mindful of that divine word which tells what punishment he deserves "Who shall scandalize one of these little ones."³ If the

DE FERRAMENTIS, VEL REBUS MONASTERII.

Ex quibus Abbas Breve teneat: ut dum sibi in ipsa assignata fratres vicissim succedunt, sciat quid dat, aut quid recipit. Si quis autem sordide aut negligentem res Monasterii tractaverit, corripiatur; si non emendaverit, disciplinei regulari subjaceat.
CHAPTER XXXII.

OF THE IRON TOOLS, OR GOODS OF THE MONASTERY.

For keeping the iron tools, clothes, or other goods belonging to the Monastery, let the Abbot appoint Brethren, of whose life and conversation he may be sure, and to them let him allot all things to be kept, as he shall judge most expedient. Of these let the Abbot keep a list, that as the Brethren succeed each other, he may know what he gives and what he receives. If any one shall use the property of the Monastery in a slovenly or negligent manner, let him be rebuked. If he does not amend, let him be subjected to regular discipline.
CAPUT XXXIII.

SI QUID DEBEANT MONACHI PROPRIUM HABERE.

Omnia vero necessaria a Patre Monasterii sperare; nec quicquam liceat habere, quod Abbas non derit aut permissit. Omniaque omnibus sint communia, ut scriptum est, 1 "nec quisquam suum esse aliquid dicat aut præsumat." WHETHER MONKS OUGHT TO HAVE ANYTHING OF THEIR OWN.

Especially let this vice be cut away from the Monastery by the very roots, that no one presume, without leave of the Abbot, to give, or receive, or hold as his own, anything whatsoever, either book, or tablets, or pen, or anything at all; because they are men whose very bodies and wills are not in their own power. But all that is necessary they may hope for from the Father of the Monastery; nor can they keep anything which the Abbot has not given or allowed. Let all things be common to all, as it is written: "Neither did any one say or think that aught was his own." If any one shall be found given to this most wicked vice, let him be admonished once or twice, and if he do not amend, let him be subjected to correction.

WHETHER ALL OUGHT EQUALLY TO RECEIVE WHAT IS NEEDFUL.

As it is written: 'Distribution was made to every one, according as he had need.' By this, we do not say that there should be accepting of persons, which God forbid, but that due consideration should be shown to each one's infirmities. Therefore, let him who needeth less, give God thanks, and be not grieved; and let him who needeth more, be humbled for his infirmity, and not lifted up for the mercy that is shown him; and thus all the members shall be in peace. Above all things, take heed there be no murmuring, by word or sign, upon any occasion whatsoever. If any one shall be found faulty in this respect, let him be subjected to most severe discipline.

OF THE WEEKLY SERVERS IN THE KITCHEN.

The Brethren are so to serve each other, that no one be excused from the office of the kitchen, unless he be hindered by sickness or other business of more profit; because a greater reward is gotten thence. But let the weaker Brethren have help, that they may do their work with alacrity, and without sadness; and let all generally have help according as the number of the Community, and the situation of the place, shall require. If the Community be great, let the Cellarer be excused from the kitchen, and as we have said before, such as are employed in matters of greater profit. Let the rest serve each other in charity. On Saturday, let him who endeth his week in the kitchen make all things clean. Let him wash the towels wherewith the Brethren wipe their hands and feet, and let both him who goeth out and him who cometh in, wash the feet of all. He shall hand over to the Cellarer, clean and whole, all the vessels of his office, and the Cellarer shall deliver them to him who entereth upon his office, that he may know what he giveth and what he receiveth. Let these weekly Officers, one hour before refection, take each a draught of drink and a piece of bread over and above the appointed allowance, that at the hour of refection they may serve their Brethren without murmuring or great labour. Nevertheless, on solemn days let all forbear till after Mass. On Sunday, immediately after Lauds both the out-going and the in-coming officers for the week, shall cast themselves upon their knees before all, and ask to be prayed for. Let him that hath ended his office say the verse: "Blessed art Thou, O Lord God, Who didst help me, and console me,"¹ which being thrice repeated, he shall receive the blessing. Let him who entereth upon his office follow immediately after and say: "O God incline unto mine aid, O Lord make haste to help me."² Let this likewise be thrice repeated by all, and having received the blessing, let him enter upon his office.

OF THE SICK BRETHREN.

Before all things, and above all things, special care must be taken of the sick, so that they be served in very deed, as Christ Himself, for He saith: "I was sick, and ye visited Me."¹

And: "What ye did to one of these My least Brethren, ye did to Me."² But let the sick themselves bear in mind that they are served for the honour of God, and must not grieve the Brethren who serve them by their extravagant demands. Nevertheless, they must patiently be borne with, because there is gotten from such a more abundant reward. Therefore let the Abbot take special care they be not neglected.

and an attendant that is God-fearing, diligent, and careful. As often as it shall be expedient, let the use of baths be allowed the sick; but to such as are in health, and especially to the young, let it be seldom granted. Moreover the sick and weakly may be allowed the use of flesh meat for their recovery. As soon, however, as they get better, they must all, after the accustomed manner, abstain from meat. Let the Abbot take special care that the Cellarer or attendants neglect not the sick, because whatever is done amiss by his disciples, is imputed to himself.

DE SENIBUS, VEL INFANTIBUS.

16 Mar. LICET ipsa natura humana trahatur ad 15 Nov. misericordiam in his ætatisibus, senum videlicet et infantum: tamen et Regulæ auctoritas eis prospiciat. CHAPTER XXXVII.

OF OLD MEN AND CHILDREN.

Although man's nature is of itself drawn to feel pity for these two ages, that is, for the old and for children, yet it is fitting that the authority of the Rule should provide for them. Let their weakness therefore be always taken into account, and the rigour of the Rule with regard to food, be by no means kept with them. Let a kind consideration be had for them, and let leave be granted them, to eat before the regular hours.

Qui ingrediens post Missas et Communionem, petat ab omnibus pro se orari, ut avertat ab eo Deus spiritum elationis. Et dicatur hic versus in Oratorio tertio ab omnibus, ipso tamen incipiente: “Domine labia mea aperies, et os meum annuntiabit laudem tuam;”¹ et sic accepta benedictione, ingrediatur ad legendum; summumque fiat silentium ad mensam, ut nullius mussitatio, vel vox, nisi solius legentis ibi audiatur.

CHAPTER XXXVIII.

OF THE WEEKLY READER.

Reading ought not to cease while the Brethren eat at table. Neither ought anyone presume to read, who shall take up the book at haphazard; but let him who is appointed to read for the whole week, enter upon his office on Sunday. After Mass and Communion, let him ask all to pray for him, that God may keep from him the spirit of pride. And let this verse be thrice repeated in the Oratory by all, the Reader first beginning it: "O Lord Thou wilt open my lips, and my mouth shall declare Thy praise;"¹ and thus having received a blessing, let him enter upon his duty. The greatest silence shall be kept at table, so that no muttering, or voice, shall be heard there, except the voice of the Reader.
Quae vero necessaria sunt comedentibus et bibentibus, sibi sic invicem ministrent fratres, ut nullus indigeat petere aliquid. Si quid tamen opus fuerit, sonitu cujuscumque signi potius petatur quam voce. Nec praesumat ibi aliquis de ipsa lectione, aut aliunde quicquam requirere, ne detur occasio maligno, nisi forte Prior voluerit pro ædificatione aliquid breviter dicere. Frater autem hebdomadarius accipiat mixtum prius quam incipiat legere, propter Communionem sanctam, et ne forte grave sit ei jejunium sustinere; postea autem cum coquinae Hebdomadariis et servitoribus reficiat. Fratres autem non per ordinem legant aut cantent, sed qui ædificent audientes.
Such things as are necessary for meat and drink, let the Brethren so minister to each other, that no one need ask for anything. Yet should anything be wanted, let it be asked for rather by a sign than by a word. Nor let any one presume to ask questions there, about what is being read, or about anything else, lest occasion be given to the evil one. Should the Prior, however, think fit, he may make some brief exhortation for the edification of the Brethren. And let the Brother who is Reader for the week take a little pottage before he begin to read, on account of Holy Communion, and lest perchance it be grievous for him to fast so long. Afterwards let him eat with the weekly Officers and servers of the kitchen. The Brethren must not read or sing in turns, but such only as may edify the hearers.

OF THE MEASURE OR QUANTITY OF MEAT.

We think it sufficient for daily refection, both at the sixth and ninth hour, that there be at all seasons two dishes, because of the infirmities of different people; so that he who cannot eat of one, may make his meal of the other. Let therefore two dishes of hot food suffice for the Brethren, and if there be any apples or young vegetables, let them be added as a third dish. Let one pound weight of bread suffice for the day, whether there be one refection, or both dinner and supper. If they are to sup, let a third part of that pound be reserved by the Cellarer, to be put before them at supper.

If their labour be great, it shall be in the power of the Abbot to add what he shall think

But to children of tender age, let not the same quantity be given, but less than to the older, in all things preserving moderation and frugality. Let all, except the very weak and the sick, abstain from eating the flesh of four footed beasts.

OF THE MEASURE OF DRINK.

"EVERYONE hath his proper gift from God, one thus, and another thus." ¹ Therefore, it is not without some misgiving, that we appoint the measure of other men's victuals. Yet considering the condition of those in weak health, we think that one pint of wine will be sufficient for each one every day. But let those upon whom God bestows the gift of abstinence know, that they shall receive their proper reward. If, however, the situation of the place, extraordinary labour, or the heat of summer, require more, let the Prior do what he thinketh good; ever having a care that fulness, or gluttony creep not in.

OF THOSE WHO COME LATE TO THE WORK OF GOD OR TO TABLE.

As soon as the signal for Divine Office shall be heard, each one, laying aside whatever occupation he may happen to be engaged in, shall hasten to the Oratory with all speed, and yet with gravity, lest an occasion be given for light behaviour. Let nothing, therefore, be preferred to the Work of God. If any one shall come to Matins after the "Gloria" of the ninety-fourth Psalm, which we would have said slowly and leisurely for this very purpose, let him not stand in his order in the choir, but last of all, or in a place which the Abbot shall have set apart for such negligent people; that he may be seen by him and by all the rest, till the Work of God be Diurnis autem Horis, qui ad Opus Dei post Versum et Gloriam primi Psalmi qui post Versum dicitur, occurrerit, lege qua supradiximus, in ultimo stet loco: nec præsumat sociari Choro psallentium usque ad satisfactionem, nisi forte Abbas licentiam dederit permissione sua; ita tamen, ut satisfaciat reus ex hoc.

We have judged it fitting they should stand in the last place, or apart, for this reason; that being seen by all, they may for very shame's sake amend. For if they remain outside the Oratory, some one will perchance either return to his cell and sleep, or at least sit without, and, abandoning himself to idle talk, give an occasion to the evil one. Let him therefore enter in, that he may not lose all, and may be amended for the time to come. In the day Hours, let him that shall come to the Work of God, after the verse* and "Gloria" of the first Psalm, stand last, as directed above, and not presume to join himself to the choir of singers until he has made satisfaction, unless the Abbot shall, by his permission, give him leave; on condition, however, that he afterwards make amends for his fault.

And if he do not afterwards amend, let him not be admitted to a share of the common table, but being separated from the company of his Brethren, let him eat alone, and let his portion of wine be taken away from him, till he make satisfaction and mend his ways. He shall suffer the like penalty, who is not present at the verse* that is said after meat. And let not any one presume to take meat or drink before or after the appointed time. presume not to intone a psalm, or read a lesson in the Oratory, unless the Abbot again order him. After each Hour, when the Work of God is finished, let him cast himself upon the earth in the place where he stands, and in this manner make satisfaction, until the Abbot command him to cease therefrom. But let such as for slight faults are excommunicated only from the table, make satisfaction in the Oratory as long as the Abbot shall command, and let them continue their satisfaction until he bless them and say:—"It is enough."

OF DAILY MANUAL LABOUR.

Idleness is an enemy of the soul. Therefore the Brethren ought to be employed at certain times in labouring with their hands, and at other fixed times, in holy reading. Wherefore we think that both these occasions may be well ordered thus: From Easter till the first of October, let them, on going forth from Prime, labour at whatever they are required till about the fourth hour. From the fourth, till close upon the sixth hour, let them be employed in reading. On rising from table after the sixth hour, let them rest on their beds with all silence, or if perchance any one shall desire to read, let him read in such a way as not to disturb any one else.

Si autem necessitas loci, aut paupertas exegerit, ut ad fruges colligendas per se occupentur, non contristentur; quia tunc vere Monachi sunt, si de labore manuum suarum vivunt, sicut et Patres nostri et Apostoli. Omnia tamen mensurate fiunt propter pusillanimes.

A Kalendis autem Octobris usque ad caput Quadragesimæ, usque ad horam secundam plenam lectioni vacent: hora secunda agatur Tertia; et usque ad Nonam omnes in opus suum laborent, quod eis injungitur. Facto autem primo signo nouæ horæ, disjungant se ab opere suo singuli, et sint parati, dum secundam signum pulsaverit. Post refecutionem autem vacent lectionibus suis, aut Psalmis. In Quadragesimæ vero diebus, a mane usque ad tertiam plenam, lectioni vacent, et usque ad decimam plenam operentur quod eis injungitur. In quibus diebus Quadragesimæ, accipiant omnes singulos codices de Bibliotheca, quos per ordinem ex integro legant: qui codices in capitc Quadragessimæ dandi sunt. Ante omnia sane deputentur unus aut duo seniores, qui circumcvent monasterium horis, quibus vacant Fratres lectioni, et videant, ne forte inveniatur

If the situation of the place, or their poverty require them to labour in reaping their corn, let them not be saddened thereat, for then are they Monks in very deed, when they live by the labour of their hands, as our Fathers and the Apostles did before us. Yet let all things be done with moderation for the sake of the fainthearted.

From the first of October till the beginning of Lent, they shall be employed in reading till the second hour complete, when Tierce shall be celebrated, and from that till the ninth hour, let them labour at whatever work is enjoined them. At the first signal of the ninth hour, let them all leave off work, so as to be ready when the second signal is given. After their refectio they shall be employed in reading spiritual books, or the psalms. But in Lent they must read from morning till the third hour complete, then let them work till the end of the tenth hour, at what is enjoined them. In these days of Lent, each one shall take a book from the Library, and read it all through in order. The books must be given at the beginning of Lent. Let one or two Seniors be specially appointed to go about the Monastery at the hours in which the Brethren are employed in reading, and see that no one be slothful or give himself up to idleness or foolish talk, and neglect his reading, being thus not only unprofitable to himself, but also a hindrance to others. If such an one be found (which God forbid!) let him be reprehended once or twice, and if he do not amend, let him be so severely corrected, that others may take warning by it. Neither let one Brother associate himself with another at unseasonable times.

On Sunday all shall devote themselves to reading, except such as are deputed for the various offices. But if any one shall be so negligent and slothful as to be either unwilling or unable to read or meditate, let him have some work* imposed upon him which he can do, and thus not be idle. To the Brethren who are of weak constitution or in delicate health, such work or art shall be given as shall keep them from idleness, and yet not oppress them with so much labour as to drive them away. Their weakness must be taken into consideration by the Abbot.

* Not any servile work, for such is forbidden; but some work in the kitchen, or in the infirmary.
CAPUT XLIX.

DE QUADRAGESIMÆ OBSERVATIONE.

31 Mar. LICET omni tempore vita Monachi Quadragesimae debeat observationem habere; tamen quia paucorum est ista virtus, ideo suademus istis diebus Quadragesimae omni puritate vitam suam custodire, omnes pariter negligentias aliorum temporum his diebus sanctis diluere. Quod tunc digne fit, si ab omnibus vitiiis nos temperemus: orationi cum fletibus, lectioni, et compunctioni cordis, atque abstinentiae operam demus. Ergo his diebus augeamus nobis aliquid ad solitum pensum servitutis nostræ, orationes peculiares, ciborum et potus abstinentiam; unusquisque super mensuram sibi indictam aliquid propria voluntate cum gaudio Sancti Spiritus offerat Deo:
CHAPTER XLIX.

OF THE OBSERVANCE OF LENT.

ALTHOUGH a Monk's life ought at all times to resemble a continual Lent, yet because few have such virtue, we exhort all in these days of Lent to live in all purity, and during this holy season to wash away all the negligences of other times. This we shall worthily accomplish if we refrain from all defects, and apply ourselves to tearful prayer, to reading, to compunction of heart, and abstinence. In these days, therefore, let us add something over and above to our wonted task, such as private prayers, and abstinence from meat and drink; let every one offer to God, of his own free will, with joy of the Holy Ghost, something above the measure appointed him; that Nevertheless, let each one acquaint the Abbot with what he offers, and do it at his desire and with his consent; because whatever is done without the permission of the spiritual Father, shall be imputed to vain glory, and merit no reward. All things, therefore, must be done with the approbation of the Abbot.

OF THE BRETHREN WHO WORK AT A DISTANCE FROM THE ORATORY, OR ARE ON A JOURNEY.

The Brethren who work at a great distance, and, in the Abbot's judgment, are unable to come to the Oratory in due time, shall fall upon their knees in the place where they are labouring, and there perform the Work of God with fear and reverence. Also, those who are sent on a journey shall not allow the appointed hours to pass by, but perform them on the way as they are best able, and omit not to accomplish their task of Divine Service.

CHAPTER LIII.

OF THE MANNER OF ENTERTAINING GUESTS.

Let all guests who come to the Monastery be entertained like Christ Himself, because He will say: "I was a stranger, and ye took Me in."¹ Let due honour be paid to all, especially to those who are of the household of the Faith, and to travellers. As soon, therefore, as a guest is announced, let the Prior or the Brethren go to meet him, with all show of charity. First let them pray together, and so be associated to each other in peace. The kiss of peace shall not be offered till after prayer, because of the illusions of the devil. And in the salutation itself let all humility be shown. let Christ Who is received in their persons, be also adored in them.

When the guests have been received, let them be brought to prayer, and after that, the Prior, or any one whom he shall order, shall sit with them. Let the Divine Law be read before the guest, that he may be edified, and afterwards let all courtesy be shown him. For his sake, the Prior shall break the fast ordained by the Rule, unless perchance it be one of those special days, on which it cannot be broken.*

The Brethren, however, shall keep their accustomed fast. Let the Abbot pour water on the hands of the guests, and let both him and the whole Community wash the feet of the same, after which they shall say this verse: "We have received Thy mercy, O God, in the midst of Thy temple."¹ But let the poor, and strangers especially, be diligently entertained with all care, because in them Christ is more truly received. For the simple fear of the rich doth beget them honour.

quiet the Brethren by their untimely arrivals. Into this kitchen let two Brothers, who can perform its duties well, enter for a year. They shall have assistance when they need it, in order that they may serve without murmuring. When they have less labour, let them go forth to work where they shall be appointed. And not only in these, but in all other offices of the Monastery, let a loving consideration be shown them, so that when they need help, it be given, and when they are without work, they obey and do what is commanded them.

Let the care of the guest-room be entrusted to a Brother, whose soul the fear of God possesseth. Let there be a sufficient number of beds there, and let the House of God be by wise men discreetly governed. By no means let any one, unless appointed thereunto, either mix with, or speak to the guests; but if he shall meet or see them, after humbly saluting and asking their blessing, he shall pass on, saying that it is not lawful for him to talk with a guest.

OF THE CLOTHES AND SHOES OF THE BRETHREN.

Let clothing be given to the Brethren suitable to the place where they live, and to the temperature of the air; because in cold countries more is needed, and in warm, less. The arrangement of all this shall be left to the discretion of the Abbot. Nevertheless we believe that for temperate places, it will be sufficient for each Monk to have a cowl and tunic; the cowl in winter to be of thicker stuff, but in summer finer and worn thin; also a scapular for work, and shoes and stockings to cover their feet. Let not the Monks find fault with the colour or coarseness of these things; they shall be such as can be procured in the country where they live, or bought at the cheapest rate.

Let the Abbot take care of their dimensions, that they be not too short, but of a size suitable to those who wear them. On receiving new clothes, let them always give up the old ones at once, to be laid by in the wardrobe for the poor. For it is sufficient for a Monk to have two tunics and two cowls, as well for change at nights, as for the convenience of washing. Anything beyond this is superfluous and must be cut off. Also, they shall give back their shoes, and whatever is worn out, when they receive anything new. When sent on a journey, they shall receive drawers from the wardrobe, and on their return shall restore them washed clean. Let their cowls and tunics on such occasions be somewhat better than those they ordinarily use. They shall receive them on setting out, and restore them to the wardrobe on their return.

Let a straw mattress, a blanket, coverlet and pillow, suffice for their bedding. This the Abbot shall frequently examine, to prevent the vice of propriety or ownership; and if anyone be discovered to possess anything which he hath not received from the Abbot, let him be subjected to the severest correction. To root out this vice, let all things be given them by

Let not an easy entrance be granted to one who cometh newly to Religious life, but, as the Apostle saith: "Try the Spirits if they be of God." And if he promise stability and perseverance, at the end of two months, let the whole Rule be read to him, with the addition of these words: "Behold the law under which thou desirest to fight; if thou canst observe it, enter in; if thou canst not, freely depart." If he shall still persevere, let him then be brought back to the aforesaid cell of the Novices, and be again tried in all patience. After the lapse of six months, let the Rule be read to him again, that he may know unto what he has come. If he still persevere, after four months, let the same Rule be read to him once more. If he shall then promise, after due deliberation, to keep and observe all things commanded him, let him be received into the Community, knowing that he is from that time forward under the law of the Rule, so that he can neither leave the Monastery nor shake off the yoke of the Rule, which, after so long a deliberation, he might have accepted or refused.

If, however, during that time he was found troublesome or faulty, not only shall he not be incorporated with the Community, but even be told with all civility to depart, lest others should be corrupted by his bad behaviour. But if he doth not deserve to be sent away, not only let him be received into the society of the Community, when he makes the request, but let him even be persuaded to stay, that by his example others may be instructed; because in every place we serve one God, and fight under one King.

The Abbot may also put him in a somewhat higher rank, if he shall find him well deserving of it. And not only may he exalt a Monk to a higher place than is his due, but also any of the aforesaid Priests or Clerics, if their lives be such as to deserve it. Let him, however, beware never at any time to receive a Monk into his Community from a known Monastery, without the consent of his Abbot, or letters of commendation from him, because it is written: "What thou wilt not have done to thyself, do not thou to another." ¹

CHAPTER LXII.

OF THE PRIESTS OF THE MONASTERY.

If any Abbot desire to have a Priest or Deacon promoted to Holy Orders, let him choose from his Monks, one who is worthy to fill the office of Priesthood. But let him that is ordained beware of haughtiness and pride, and presume not to do anything except what is ordered by the Abbot; well aware, that he is now much more subject to the discipline of the Rule. Let him not, by reason of his Priesthood, forget the obedience and discipline of the Rule, but rather strive to advance more and more in the service of God.

He shall, however, take his rank from the time he entered the Monastery, except in his office at the Altar, and also, in case the Com-vel Præpositis constitutam sibi servandam sciat; quod si aliter præsumpserit, non ut sacerdos, sed ut rebellis judicetur. munity's choice and the Abbot's desire be to advance him higher for his holiness of life. He must, nevertheless, observe the rules prescribed by the Deans or Provosts, and if he presume to act contrariwise, he shall be judged, not as a Priest, but as a rebel. If after frequent admonitions he do not amend, the Bishop shall be informed of his behaviour. If even after this he grow not better, and his faults become notorious, he shall be thrust out of the Monastery, provided his disobedience be such that he will not submit and obey the Rule.

DE ORDINE CONGREGATIONIS.

Qui Abbas non conturbet gregem sibi commissum, nec quasi libera utens potestate, injuste disponat aliquid: sed cogitet semper, quia de omnibus judiciis et operibus suis redditurus est Deo rationem. Ergo secundum ordinem quos constituerit, vel quos habuerint ipsi fratres, sic accedant ad Pacem, ad Communionem, ad Psalmum imponendum, in Choro standum. CHAPTER LXIII.

OF THE ORDER OF THE COMMUNITY.

The Brethren shall hold that rank in the Monastery which is fixed for them by the time of their coming to Religion, by the merit of their life, or by the appointment of the Abbot. And let not the Abbot disquiet the flock committed to him, nor, as it were by an arbitrary use of power, arrange anything unjustly; but let him always consider that he is to give an account to God of all his judgments and of all his works.

Therefore, let the Brethren receive the Pax, approach to Communion, intone a psalm, and stand in choir, according to that order which he shall appoint, or which they hold among themselves. In all places without exception, let not order be decided by age, neither let it Ergo exceptis iis, quos (ut diximus) altiori consilio Abbas prætulerit, vel degradaverit certis ex causis, reliqui omnes, ut convertuntur, ita sint, ut, verbi gratia, qui secunda diei hora venerit in Monasterium, juniorem se noverit esse illo qui prima hora diei venit, cujuslibet ætatis aut dignitatis sit. Pueris vero per omnia ab omnibus disciplina teneatur.

Ubicumque autem sibi obviant fratres, junior a Priore benedictionem petat. Trans-eunte majore, junior surgat et det ei locum sedendi. Nec præsumat junior consedere, nisi ei præcipiat senior suus: ut fiat quod scriptum est: "Honore invicem prævenientes." 1 Pueri be a prejudice to any man; for Samuel and Daniel, though mere youths, sat in judgment upon the Elders. With the exception, therefore, of those whom for special reasons the Abbot shall advance or lower, let all the rest keep the order of their entrance into Religion. For example: He who cometh at the second hour of the day must know that he is lower in the Monastery than the man who came at the first hour, no matter what his age or dignity may be. But with regard to children, let them be kept under discipline on all occasions, by all indiscriminately.

Let the Juniors, therefore, honour their Seniors, and the Seniors love the Juniors. But in addressing each other by name, no one shall call another by his simple name; let the Seniors call the Juniors Brothers, and let the Juniors call the Seniors, "Reverend Fathers."* But because the Abbot representeth the person of Christ, he shall be called "Domnus," and "Abbot," not as if he took this title upon himself, but out of honour and love for Christ. Let him remember to conduct himself in such a way, as to be worthy of so great honour.

Wheresoever the Brethren meet each other, let the Junior ask a blessing from the Senior. When the Senior passeth by, let the Junior rise, and give place to him to sit down. Nor shall the Junior presume to sit with him, unless his Senior bid him do so, in order to accomplish that which is written: "In honour preventing one another."¹ Little children, or youths, shall keep their respective places in the Oratory or at table with due discipline. Elsewhere, careful watch shall be kept over them, till they come to the age of understanding, in order to ensure their good behaviour.

OF THE ELECTION OF THE ABBOT.

In the election of an Abbot let the following method always be observed; that he be constituted Abbot whom either the whole Community by common consent shall elect in the fear of God, or whom a part of the same, though few in number, shall choose with greater wisdom and discretion. Let him who is to be raised to this dignity be chosen on account of his virtuous life, his learning, and his wisdom; even though he be the last in the Community. But although the entire Community (which God forbid) shall with one accord choose a man who supports them in their evil practices, and these, by some means become known to the Bishop in whose

When once established in his office, let the Abbot always reflect how weighty a burthen he hath taken upon himself, and unto Whom he must give an account of his stewardship. Let him also know that it is more becoming in him to do good unto others, than to hold sway over them. He must therefore be learned in the Divine Law, that he may know whence to "bring forth new things and old;" he must be chaste, sober, and merciful, and always prefer mercy to justice, that he himself may obtain mercy. He shall hate vice, and love the Brethren. Even in his corrections he shall act with prudence, and be guilty of no excess, lest, while too eagerly scouring off the rust, the vessel itself be broken. Let him ever bear in mind his own frailty, and remember that "the bruised reed must not be broken."

By this, we do not mean that he should allow vices to grow up, but, as we have said before, with prudence and charity, seek to root them out in such a way as shall be expedient for each case; and let his aim be rather to excite love, than to inspire fear. He must observe a calmness in his ways, and be not full of care; neither let him be over exacting, nor head-strong, nor jealous, nor over suspicious, for then he will never be at rest. Even in what he orders, whether it pertain to God or to temporal matters, let him be prudent and considerate. Let him be discreet and moderate in the works which he enjoins, bearing in mind the discretion of holy Jacob who said; "If I shall cause my flocks to be over driven, they will all die in one day." 1 Therefore, adopting these and the like principles of discretion, which is the mother of all virtues, let him so temper all things that the strong may have somewhat to strive after, and the weak, nought from which they may flee away. Especially let him observe this present rule in all things, that after having ministered well, he may hear from the Lord what the good servant heard, who gave corn to his fellow servants in due time: "Amen, I say unto you, over all his goods will he place him." 2

DE PRÆPOSITO MONASTERII.

SÆPIUS quidem contingit, ut per ordinationem Præpositi scandala gravia in Monasteriis orientur, dum sint aliqui maligno spiritu superbiae inflati, qui æstimantes se secundos Abbates esse, assumentes sibi tyrannidem, scandala nutriunt, dissensiones in Congregacione faciunt, et maxime in illis locis, ubi ab eodem Sacerdote, vel ab eisdem Abbatibus qui Abbatem ordinant, ab ipsis etiam et Præpositus ordinatur. Quod quam sit absurdum facile advertitur, quia ab ipso initio ordinationis materia ei datur superbiendi, dum ei suggeritur a cogitationibus suis, exutum eum esse a potestate Abbatis sui, quia ab ipsis est ordinatus, a quibus et Abbas. CHAPTER LXV.

OF THE PREPOSITUS OR PROVOST OF THE MONASTERY.

It often happens that by the appointment of a Provost,* great scandals arise in Monasteries; because some, so appointed, being puffed up with the malignant spirit of pride, and esteeming themselves to be second Abbots, take upon themselves to tyrannize over others, to foster scandals, and to promote dissensions in the Community; and especially in those places where the Provost is instituted by the same Bishops or Abbots as the Abbot himself. How foolish this custom is, may easily be perceived; for a handle for pride is given to the Provost from the very beginning of his dissensiones, exordinationes; et dum contraria sibi invicem Abbas Præpositusque sentiunt, et ipsorum necesse est sub hac dissensione animas periclitari; et ii qui sub ipsis sunt, dum adulantur partibus, eunt in perditionem. Cujus periculi malum illos respicit in capite, qui talibus in ordinatione se fecerunt auctores. Ideoque nos prævidemus expedire propter pacis charitatisque custodiam, in Abbatis pendere arbitrio ordinationem Monasterii sui. Et si potest fieri, per Decanos ordinetur. (ut antea disposuimus) omnis utilitas Monasterii, prout Abbas disposuerit: ut dum pluribus committitur, unus non superbit.

23 Apr. Quod si aut locus expetit, aut Congregationatio petierit rationabiliter cum humilitate, et Abbas judicaverit expedire, quemcumque eleaderit Abbas, cum consilio fratrum timentium Deum, ordinet ipse sibi Præpositum. Qui tamen Præpositus illa agat cum reverentia quæ ab Abbate suo ei injuncta fuerint, nihil contra Abbatis voluntatem, aut ordinationem faciens: quia quantum prælatus est cæteris, tantum eum oportet sollicite observare præcepta Regulæ.

appointment, because his thoughts suggest to him that he is now released from the power of his Abbot, since he is instituted by the very persons by whom the Abbot himself is instituted. Hence arise envy, quarrels, detractions, rivalries, dissensions, and disorders; and while the Abbot and Provost are at variance with each other, it must of necessity follow, that their souls are imperilled during this dissension; those also who are under their charge run to destruction by adhering, some to one side, and some to the other. The sin of this danger lieth principally upon those who were the authors of such an appointment. Therefore, we foresee that it is expedient for the preservation of peace and charity, that the entire government of the Monastery depend upon the will of the Abbot. As we have before arranged, let all the business of the Monastery be transacted, if possible, by the Deans, according as the Abbot shall have determined, in order that, many being sharers in the same office, no one may become proud.

But if either the circumstances of the place require a Provost, or the Community with reason and humility ask for one, and the Abbot think it expedient, he shall with the

Let the Provost do with reverence what shall be enjoined him by the Abbot, in no way going against his will or ordinance; because the higher he is advanced above the rest, the more carefully ought he to observe all the precepts of the Rule. If the Provost be found viciously inclined, or deceived by the haughtiness of pride, or a contemner of the Holy Rule, let him be warned by word of mouth four times; if he do not amend, let the correction of regular discipline be applied to him. If with this he do not grow better, he shall be deposed from the dignity of the Provostship, and a worthier man put in his place. If after this he be not quiet and obedient in the community, let him be expelled from the Monastery. The Abbot shall nevertheless bear in mind, that for all his judgments he shall have to give an account to God, lest perchance his soul be misled by a mistaken zeal of envy and jealousy.

OF THE PORTER OF THE MONASTERY.

At the gate of the Monastery, let there be stationed a wise old man, who knows how to receive and to give an answer, and whose ripeness of age will not suffer him to wander from his post. He ought to have a cell near the gate, that such as come may always find him at hand, ready to give them an answer.

As soon as any one shall knock, or a poor man cry for aid, let him presently answer: "Thanks be to God," or invoke a blessing; and with all mildness of the fear of God, let him reply speedily in the fervour of charity. If he need help, he shall have a junior Brother with him. The Monastery ought, if possible, to be so constructed as to contain within itself

Such as trespass in this respect shall be reprehended in the presence of all, that the rest may be inspired with fear. But let all have strict discipline and care over children, until their fifteenth year; yet this also must be done with moderation and discretion. For he who shall, without the Abbot's leave, presume to chastise such as are above that age, or to be unduly severe even towards the children, shall be liable to regular discipline, because it is written: "What thou wouldest not have done to thyself, do not thou unto another." ¹

OF THE GOOD ZEAL WHICH MONKS OUGHT TO HAVE.

As there is a zeal of bitterness which separateth from God, and leadeth to hell, so there is a good zeal, which separateth from vices and leadeth to God and life everlasting. Let Monks, therefore, exercise this zeal with most fervent love; that is to say, let them "in honour prevent one another."¹ Let them bear patiently with each other's infirmities, whether of body or of mind, and contend with one another in the virtue of obedience. Let no one follow what he thinketh profitable to himself, but rather that which is profitable to another; let them show unto each other all brotherly charity with a chaste love. THAT THE HIGHEST DEGREE OF PERFECTION IS NOT CONTAINED IN THIS RULE.

We have written this Rule, that by its observance in Monasteries we may show that we possess, in some measure, uprightness of manners, or the beginning of a good Religious life. But for such as hasten forward to the perfection of holy living, there are the precepts of the holy Fathers, the observance whereof leadeth a man to the height of perfection. For what page, or what passage is there in the divinely inspired books of the Old and New Testament, that is not a most perfect rule of man's life? Or what book is there of the holy Catholic Fathers that doth not proclaim this; that we may by a direct course reach our Creator? Moreover, what else are the sunt, nisi bene viventium et obedientium Monachorum exempla, et instrumenta virtutum? Nobis autem desidiosis et male viventibus atque negligentibus, rubor confusionis est.

Quisquis ergo ad patriam caelestem festinas, hanc minimam inchoationis Regulam descriptam, adjuvante Christo, perfice: et tum demum ad majora, quae supra commemoravimus, doctrinae virtutumque culmina, Deo protegente, pervenies.

All Perfection not in this Rule. 301

Collations of the Fathers, their Institutes, their Lives, also the Rule of our Holy Father Basil, but examples of the good living and obedience of Monks, and so many instruments of virtue? But to us who are slothful and lead bad and negligent lives, they are matter for shame and confusion.

Therefore whosoever thou art that dost hasten to the heavenly country, first accomplish, by the help of Christ, this little Rule written for beginners; and then at length thou shalt come, under the guidance of God, to those loftier heights of doctrine and of virtue, which we have mentioned above.
